Signature Insurance, an insurance broker in Warren, MI, is committed to providing people with cheap auto insurance that is completely fit for purpose. They believe that insurance companies across the country have ripped people off for many years, overcharging them for coverage they don't need. To help prevent this, the company has released a new blog post highlighting exactly how people are effectively being swindled, while at the same time showing them how to avoid this.

Zaid Zayto from Signature Insurance says: "Insurance has always been one of the most controversial subjects in the auto world. It is rightly compulsory to have auto insurance, but that doesn't mean insurance companies should take advantage either. If you've had that feeling in the pit of your stomach that auto insurance companies are probably taking advantage of you, you're right. You're only slightly wrong on the part about auto insurance companies. Because it's not just them. It is spread across the board."

In the latest blog post, Signature Insurance cites the cost of insurance to premium holders, the price paid for fraudulent insurance claims, and the fact that so few people believe they are getting fair rates. The post then goes on to explain exactly how insurance companies are able to charge so much, whether for homeowners insurance or any other type of insurance.

"Insurance companies fail to factor in car depreciation," adds Zaid Zayto. "They dramatically increase their rates after an accident. They also reject claims on incidences affecting pre-existing injuries. Additionally, they offer unnecessary coverage on rental cars. We know what the laws and the rules are, and we can make sure that you receive the coverage you need, at a price that is actually fair for your specific situation."

Signature Insurance offers a variety of different types of insurance products that range from auto insurance to ride share coverage to commercial insurance. They would like to encourage everyone to contact them for a free, no obligation quotation. Zaid Zayto says: "I am sure that we will be able to find you a policy that costs a whole lot less than you expected."
