January 17, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Pensacola, FL- The New Year is a time that local business owners take inventory of the past year. According to national publication Business Insider, "The payments industry has been evolving rapidly, especially in the last few years with the growing shift to digital." Many businesses are looking to make changes during the new year to improve their daily operations. Provider of Merchant Services in Pensacola, FL is offering a solution to the typical point of sale systems.

Owner of Gulf Coast Merchant Services Steven Cadenhead elaborated on one of his goals for the new year by stating, "We want to be able to provide businesses with the piece of mind knowing they can rely on their POS system to help them make that jump in the new year."

Another trend local businesses have been following are credit card processing systems. A few years ago when merchants started accepting credit cards on the go, some customers were worried about using these systems. Today, credit card processing in Pensacola, FL has become a necessity in successful businesses. As more consumers became comfortable with making these types of transactions, the more they are expected.

"There have been a lot of innovations recently in POS system capabilities, its important that businesses stay up to date with whats available and they are able to ensure their customers ease of access in payment systems," Mr. Cadenhead states.
