Biohazard Cleanup USA has announced that they have opened a new location in Dallas, TX. Having over ten years experience in the biohazard, crime scene, hoarding, and crime victim service arena, the company will be offering a much needed service to the Dallas area. One of the things that has set the company apart and has made them the go-to source for this type of cleanup work in other areas is their empathy and understanding of difficult situations.

Company representative Alexander Flesch says: "We ensure all our clients are treated like family. We are also a lot more cost-effective than anyone else. We believe that, in our client's time of need, it is so important to take care of them like we would our own. Situations in which our services are needed are never pleasant, and we want to make sure our clients don't experience any more stress than is absolutely necessary."

Biohazard cleanup is a very specialized field of work that is bound by numerous complex rules and regulations. This is understandable, as it relates to issues that could pose a public health concern. Biohazard Cleanup USA has set itself apart by ensuring all their staff members are fully trained and that their knowledge and skills is always 100% up to date and in line with all the relevant forms of legislation. Alexander Flesch adds: "Licensed and certified we understand that these life-changing events can cause trauma for the rest of your life. We are able and experienced with dealing with homicide cases, hazardous waste, crime scene, blood unattended death all causing a problem on your property."

It is understood that the company will quickly set itself apart as the best crime scene cleanup Dallas has to offer. They encourage everyone to review their website to gain greater understanding of the work that they do and the services that they offer. The company also releases frequent blog posts on what their work entails and the situations they come across, as well as how they are able to resolve them and clean them in a sensitive, emphatic manner.
