Qi Tribe, a health and fitness community in Tampa, FL, have today announced the release of their no-tie shoelaces. These shoelaces are designed to be the ultimate footwear accessory for sports enthusiasts. To close them, they simply need to be squeezed and pulled. It is hoped that many triathlon athletes, hikers, cyclists, runners and others will be able to enjoy them.

"When someone takes part in a professional sport, or even at amateur level for that matter, and their shoe lace becomes undone, the sport is ruined", says Robert Kaplan from Qi Tribe. "Not only does it mean they have to stop their activity to retie their laces, it means they place themselves in considerable danger as well, as loose laces pose a trip hazard. Thanks to our no-tie shoelaces, this is no longer a concern."

The no tie shoelaces come with an "elastic lacing system," meaning they never have to be tied again. They can simply be slipped on the shoe and only need to be pulled in order to tighten them.

Because of this system, they are made for various sports such as triathlons and road races. They are designed to hold tight and stay in place with great ease. All a wearer needs to do is slip and squeeze them and they will be in place, where they will stay until loosened again.

A particular point of interest with these shoe laces is that they are suitable for everybody. "Because of the very easy system, our shoe laces can be used by people with arthritis or other dexterity problems," adds Robert Kaplan. "Hence, while they are designed for those who enjoy athletic sports, they can just as easily be used by people with special needs, young children who cannot tie their laces, the elderly and anybody else. They really are the easiest and quickest no tie solution out there. Plus, they come in a range of colors, so people can get the ones that best suit their personal style as well."

The elastic shoe laces are made hold tight and give a very firm fit. The secure grip is designed to keep the top of the foot comfortable, leaving shoes in place. While they are snug, they are designed to not constrict the foot or circulation itself. Hence, wearers will not feel any pinching or have numb toes at the end of a sports session.

While this solution is completely innovative and new to the market, the elastic shoe laces actually look like regular laces. They can also easily be cut to the required length for any type of sneaker or shoe, even hiking boots.
