

5 Port USB Charger By Samsali Tec Makes Its Debut

June 27, 2015

June 27, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Greg Mitchelhill, spokesperson for the company Samsali Tec, has announced that they have just released the 5 port usb charger on Amazon, which is their latest product. The multiple USB charger has been designed to be fast, which the company said is due to its high 40W power and 5 ports. The device is able to charge a combination of phones, tablets and other USB devices at full speed.

Greg Mitchelhill said that customers will appreciate the built-in failsafe mechanisms, which is achieved through the USB charger's high grade microchips. Customers will be able to receive their devices fully charged in less time and never have to worry that they will get damaged in any way. There are currently just over 10 customer reviews, with all of them being very positive.

One customer wrote the following in their review: "I received this product at a discounted price for my honest and unbiased opinion. I am very impressed with this desktop charger, I love it. We have used it many times in the short time we've had it. The kids and I can plug in all of our devices at the same time. It is so much more convenient to use and the cord is a great length too. It is good quality too and charges fast. Thinking it will be great for traveling too. I definitely highly recommend this charger."

Samsali Tec said that their USB hub charger is compatible with most devices, which includes the iPhone, iPod, iPad, Samsung Galaxy, headphones, MP3 players, speakers, battery chargers, and many more. Greg Mitchelhill stated that one of the features they are proud of is the charger's intelligent technology which is able to identify the device that has been plugged into the multiple USB charger so that it can maximize the charging speed.

The five port USB charger has also been designed to be compact so that it can be used at home or while traveling.

Another customer wrote the following review on Amazon: "I can finally charge all my devices using only one outlet! Some time ago I bought another charger with 2 USB ports, but as many others, you have to pay attention at what port you are using, because they don't have the same power. While this charger from Samsali Tec is really intelligent :D And you can use whatever port you want and charge up to 5 devices at the same time.

I also love that it has a long cord and it will be super useful also when traveling abroad."

Greg Mitchelhill stated that they are very excited with their latest product, and they are confident that their customers will find these devices very useful. They are also offering a 100% unconditional guarantee so that customers can feel protected in case they are not satisfied. For more information on the five port USB charger, please go to the company's Amazon storefront. Here, shoppers will be able to get the full details on all the features listed for this product.

###

For more information about Samsali Tec, contact the company here: Samsali TecGreg Mitchelhillgreg@samsali.com

Samsali Tec

Samsali Tec provides a range of market leading products for the home and office. The primary focus is on computer and phone accessories to save time and add fun to daily activities.

Email: greg@samsali.com

Samsali Tec

