Geek Home Services, a business in Houston, TX, are proud to announce that they now offer guaranteed streak free windows. As a leading provider of 'All Seasons' window washing and other related cleaning services in Houston and surrounding areas, the company prides itself on being able to offer this guarantee.

Kyle Galbraith from Geek Home Services says: "Providing high quality window cleaning and related services since 2007, we have been quietly creeping up on our competition to become one of the region's largest window cleaning companies. To continue this upward trend, we now offer a full guarantee on our cleaning services, promising windows to be streak free every time."

The company values both the residential and commercial window cleaning side of their business equally. Hence, regardless of who their client is, they offer the same level of professionalism and expertise across all their window cleaning Houston efforts. Kyle Galbraith adds: "Whether a high rise commercial building, residence, or construction site, we have the knowledge and experience to economically take care of your window washing project for you. Property managers, building owners, and homeowners alike trust us to take care of their most demanding window cleaning requirements."

Geek Home Services prides itself on continuously expanding the services they offer in an effort to compliment their professional window cleaning as the mainstay of their business. Many of these services provide their customers a one stop choice for many related cleaning and window repair needs. Kyle Galbraith continues: "Let us provide you with a strategy for an ongoing, regular maintenance program to keep your facility or property looking as good as the day you moved in."

'The Picture Perfection Streak Free Guarantee' means that customers do not pay until they are 100% satisfied with the service that they have received. Hence, the company will come back and address any issues, ensuring that they stand behind their guarantee of a streak free window cleaning service every time. Unsurprisingly, the company is quickly becoming known as the best window washing company in Houston for both residential and commercial buildings, a reputation they greatly value and work very hard to maintain.
