Gross & Schuster, P.A., a Pensacola personal injury lawyer firm offering an accident attorney to those who need one, has announced that they now offer a free case evaluation through their website. They have dedicated a separate page of their website to the free case evaluation, through an easy to use contact form. People can also attend the offices directly, and the web page includes a map to help people find it.

Terrence A. Gross, partner at Gross & Schuster, P.A., says: "We want to make sure that people find it as easy as possible to find out whether they have a case to be made following an accident or injury. This is why we have dedicated an entire section of our website to a free case evaluation. People only have to enter their contact details and a brief description of what happened to them, and we will look at what we can do help them. This is naturally completely no obligation as well."

The Pensacola auto accident attorney firm sets itself apart by focusing solely on personal injury. They deal with different types of injuries, including car accidents, other forms of personal injury, and wrongful death. His work has been greatly appreciated by his many clients, who felt they were listened to and that they truly had someone fighting in their corner.

Brenda D., for instance, says on the firm's Google page: "Although this was my first experience with needing an attorney to represent me in an accident claim, it was a wonderful experience with the best outcome I could have hoped for. My recommendation for anyone, but especially someone having no previous legal issues, have no doubt that Terrence A. Gross will not fail you. Everyone at the Gross & Schuster Firm was extremely professional, courteous and friendly at all times. Another greatly appreciated approach was how up-to-date I was kept about the progression of the case - I never felt a need to contact them because they kept me so informed. Needless to say, I have no hesitation in giving the highest recommendation for this attorney/firm."

The Pensacola accident attorney firm is dedicated and committed to ensuring anyone who has been involved in an accident receives proper representation. For more information about Gross & Schuster, P.A. please call (850) 434-3333 or visit https://www.grossandschuster.com.
