Highly Anticipated Organic Body Moisturizer Set Expected To Be An Amazon Best Seller

GG Skin Therapy Organics has announced that their long awaited 100% Organic moisturizing set for severe dry skin is now available on the Amazon.com marketplace. The much anticipated GG Skin Therapy Organics Cabernet Collection is made here in the U.S.A. and is created with 100% Organic moisturizing products, including an organic body wash, organic sugar scrub, and organic firming body lotion. It's expected to be one of Amazon's Best Sellers and customers are advised to get their GG Skin Therapy Organics moisturizing set, before they sell out.

"Initially we had only planned on offering this product to our customers in Albuquerque," said Founder Gloria Goodman, when asked about the product being offered by Amazon now. Goodman, a highly recommended and skilled Aesthetician (Skin Care Specialist) in New Mexico, developed the product after having numerous customers complain of chronic severe dry skin problems, due to the high altitude and dry climate of the desert Southwest.

"It wasn't long before we realized that there were many people outside of the state with severe dry skin who desperately needed our organic moisturizing set. It just made good sense to make the product available on Amazon.com, since Amazon makes the customer experience of buying so easy and hassle-free for people, no matter where they live."

Goodman advises those who have been suffering with severe dry skin, that using an organic body lotion is only part of the solution. "If you want long term, deep moisturizing for your skin to heal completely, you have to do a bit more than just lathering on some lotion." She explains that unless you make a way for the moisturizer to penetrate deep into the skin, you're effectively only smoothing out skin scales (which can explain why it doesn't take long for your skin to start crying out for more moisturizer).

"It's kind of like when you get a facial; you're not just adding moisturizer."

Her advice: Use an organic moisturizing system, that cleanses and moisturizes the skin, followed by a gentle exfoliator (such as a sugar scrub), and then apply the organic body lotion.

It seems that GG Skin Therapy Organics is gaining popularity primarily because their products are developed with local 100% organic ingredients made from Organic fruit enzymes and plant extracts, of which are free from gluten, sulfates, parabens, sodium chloride or any other non-organic additives. "Not only do I believe it's the ingredients that are making a difference, but when you treat your body as well as you do your face, by using a moisturizing system like this, it gives severe dry skin a chance to heal," added Goodman.

The organic moisturizing system is a 3-piece set, consisting of an organic body wash, organic sugar scrub and organic firming body lotion.

Raving reviews of the product on Amazon.com show that this business decision was a smart move on Goodman's part. "It's not that we're surprised that people are responding so enthusiastically about this product, because we know how good it really is," said, Goodman, "but we are surprised at how quickly sales have picked up since Amazon began selling it." She believes that curious customers are giving it a try since Amazon has high credibility in the marketplace and makes online shopping easy.

Amazon.com has approved and added GG Skin Therapy Organics to its brand registry, and is now offering this organic body moisturizer set to its more than 30 million customers worldwide. Amazon is known for providing exceptional customer service by giving buyers complete financial protection, as well as guarantee of quality.
