December 30, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Qi Tribe, a business in Tampa, FL, has launched their biking hydration packs. This high quality pack, named Qi Pack, is designed to enable cyclists to drink while on the move, ensuring they remain hydrated throughout their sport. The hydration pack is currently available on Amazon. The Qi Pack is a true value using a high grade bladder and incorporating many features only found in the more expensive hydration packs. Already, the Qi Pack is gaining in popularity. Hence, customers are encouraged to get theirs quickly. "Since launching our product, it has already been hailed by many as the best hydration pack for the price on the market today," says Robert Kaplan from Qi Tribe.

The pack holds a 2 liter hydration bladder that is a premium thicker grade than our competitors and completely BPA free. While marketed as a cyclists' hydration pack, it can be used by anybody, including hikers, climbers, runners, joggers and more.

The pack is designed for comfort. It allows people to carry the necessary fluids with them to avoid hydration without having to carry bottles. This also means that there is less chance of people discarding old bottles while outside in nature. As such, the product is actually benefiting the environment as a while as well.

Since its first launch, many people have commented on its ease of use and other benefits. "This hydration pack arrived quickly as promised, it is just the right sized for outdoor activities like running", says E Rivera. "I will be using this pack for my long runs when the weather warms up a little. It cinches up tight to the body to prevent bouncing around. It has ample room for snacks, gels, keys, etc. has a wide mouth bladder to facilitate adding favorite drink and ice. Has a bite valve just like a much more expensive brand. It has a mesh where it contacts your body so it feels comfortable even when you sweat. It also has an insulated wall between the body and the water bladder to keep your liquids cold. It definitely has all the features that the expensive brands have."

Besides being comfortable to use and enhancing an athlete's safety by keeping them hydrated, the pack is also very useful. It comes with three zipper pouches to the front, in which an athlete can carry such things as snacks, their phone, wallet, extra clothes and so on. The pack is lightweight, which is why when it comes to a hydration pack biking athletes like it so much. It doesn't hamper their movement or make them less aerodynamic after all.
