Mike Marko, founder and owner of Cincinnati, OH based digital marketing agency IM Consultant Services, has announced the release of a review of Wealth Network. He explains this opportunity in the review and why he actively promotes it and recommends it as a great way to get started marketing from home. Those interested in reading the review can visit the company's website.

"This is a free online business which uses an automated system to help and teach you to earn more money online," explains Mike Marko. "As you can see, it's similar to other popular MLM programs. They offer the system for free so they can attract more affiliates or downlines despite the fact that they attempt to build a greater value to the user in exchange as well."

In the review, Mike Marko starts by explaining the three different products that are offered by MLM program and their associated costs. He makes no recommendation in terms of which one is best, as this will depend entirely on an individual's capabilities and desires. The first package is the baseline package, and each tier up from there offers something more. The review then goes on to look at the business opportunity itself. He discusses the compensation plan, comparing it to the cost of joining.

In his review of The Wealth Network, Mike Marko provides some words of advice on how to be successful in the opportunity. For many, this is the most important element of the review, as it shows them how it works. He explains: "You need to have your own blog. Once you have a blog, you now have a platform that you can get started with marketing. You then need to pick your keywords and deliver content, after which you can get interested parties on your list."

For those who have been encouraged by The Wealth Network review, IM Consultant Services offers a free boot camp for those interested in becoming online entrepreneurs and marketers.
