Oxnard, CA - Professional awards and promotional products company Aswell Trophy shares how creating an environment where recognition for quality can benefit the prosperity of any business. The Oxnard trophy company notes how positive recognition translates to positive results in any environment. This principle maintains morale and retains employees, allowing for a business to flourish and stay ahead of the competition.

?Empowerment works as a double-positive relationship where everyone wins,? the owner of Aswell Trophy said. ?When a manager recognizes a worker, the worker is proud, but so is the manager to have that person on their team.?

While a monetary gift is spent, and forgotten, an award or trophy acts as a reminder of achievement and lives on in the heart and mind of the recipient for years to come. The supplier of custom promotional products in Oxnard understands that the foundation for success is based on motivation and appreciation. The company found that appreciation and recognition are among two of the top principles people value in their job. That is why Aswell Trophy states that rewarding an employee with cash reduces efficiency, as it lacks personal touch and emotion.

?We believe in the importance of recognition. Recognition is rewarding positive behavior to get that behavior repeated. The benefit in eliciting desired behavior from staff, athletes, students and volunteers is enormous,? the owner of Aswell Trophy said.
