July 02, 2015 -
Foxbrim Of Lake Alfred, FL has recently expanded their product line with the addition of their organic Jojoba Oil. Building on the market momentum acquired after the successful launch of their Organic Argan Oil, the Florida based company has maintained the interest of their customers by continuing to add their signature unrefined oils to their growing line. The multipurpose oil has been received with considerable zeal by their growing customer base. The unique properties of the oil enable it to be used for a variety of purposes, from skin moisturizing to hair repair remedies.

According to a research published in the medical journal; Clinical, Cosmetic and Investigational Dermatology, skin problems are fast developing in men and women alike. The primary reasons of damage are smoke emitted from a number of sources and UV light from the summer sun, resulting in the need for products that can replenish damaged tissues. However, as most such products contain chemicals, the results are often unsatisfactory, especially in the long term.

Jojoba Oil is a product that is extracted from the seeds of the Jojoba Shrub and has been used widely in cosmetics for its rich nutrient content. The Native Americans in the American Sonoran Desert were among the first to use it for various cosmetic and medicinal purposes. While most oils contain triglycerides, researchers have found Jojoba oil to be made up of liquid long-chain esters and contains ample fatty acids that gives it superior health benefits compared to most other oils by promoting cell rejuvenation.

Foxbrim has been able to tout its Jojoba Oils to be premium owing to the way it has been processed. By manufacturing oils that are unrefined after extraction from seeds without any heat applied, they are of the highest purity available. The seeds themselves are sourced responsibly, earning the title of Certified Organic by EcoCert & USDA. This adds to the value of the product as a natural cosmetic solution which is now being offered at nearly half price on their Amazon store.

Their Organic Jojoba Oil has gained Foxbrim acclaim from its customers. With a majority of positive reviews on Amazon, 95% of users gave it a perfect 5/5 rating. The oil is also available from their website in addition to the Amazon store. Customers who have used the product have pitched in with their dotting reviews: "Foxbrim's Organic Jojoba Oil can be used as a daily moisturizer, makeup remover, pre-shave oil, and lip treatment. For hair, it provides exceptional moisture for deep conditioning and nourishment. It hydrates the body while creating beautifully supple and moisturized skin."

By establishing an overwhelmingly positive image as a company that specializes quality in organic, unrefined oils, serums, moisturizers, cleansers and toners, Foxbrim is well on its way to be considered a standard in the market.
