June 30, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Las Vegas, NV based software manufacturer, TATEMS, has announced that their Truck Maintenance Software may just beat out the competition when it comes to price and practice. The company is one that proves popular among current customers, with a number of shining reviews, and their website expresses that their software is, "Fleet Maintenance Software That Won't Give You Sticker Shock," as well as being, "Stupid Simple To Use." Their quirky and innovative take on software and customer service has earned them a space among some of the top ranking truck software experts in their class.

All of the different packages and pricing options are viewable on the company website, at <http://tatems.com>. Here, business owners with fleets of trucks to manage can see exactly how much money they will be spending and which services they are spending it on. TATEMS makes it simple for small, mid-sized, and even large companies to see what works best for them with a click of a mouse. They even offer a free trial to those who want to take the hypothetical car out for a spin before purchasing it.

A quick visit to <http://tatems.com/purchase.cfm> introduces customers to the company's FAQ sheet and package guide. The Silver Basic for $797 supplies users with 1 TATEMS license, one year of upgrades and software support, with additional licenses available for $50 each. Their Gold Super Package for $997 gives more services with 5 TATEMS licenses, 2 years of upgrades and support, bonus live training, and additional licenses at $50 each. They explain:

"TATEMS comes with Networking built-in so that you can simultaneously share the same data between each of your licensed computers on a Local Area Network. You can also install TATEMS on a Terminal Services Server aka Remote Desktop Services Server so that you can access from remote locations. In a Remote Desktop Services environment you would need a license for each concurrent (simultaneous) user."

The company believes so strongly in their software and the services it offers that they also give each customer a satisfaction guarantee. The pride that they feel in their product is certainly reflected in customer comments, and they urge interested individuals to read more about their software and the way that it works by visiting their blog at, <http://tatems.com/blog> They have said the following about their customer satisfaction policy:

"If after purchasing TATEMS you decide within 60 days that it is not the simplest, easiest to use, most helpful, time saving, cost saving Fleet Maintenance Software you've ever used... then we don't want to keep your money. If you're not completely satisfied within 60 days we will gladly refund your investment... After you simply remove the software. NO QUESTIONS ASKED!!"

TATEMS invites all those who wish to learn more about their product and services to visit them online and contact them using the information available through their website. They also provide various tutorials and demo videos which make it quick and simple to grasp the basic operation of the software and how it can benefit any company needing truck maintenance or fleet management.
