

Fantastic Trades Global Reveals Best Iphone 6 Case For The Forgetful

July 02, 2015

Fantastic Trades Global, an electronics and accessories company, has just released Protekme, an Iphone 6 case exclusively sold at Amazon. With front and back covers, plus a kickstand and a belt clip, Protekme protects the phone from shock, minor scratches and bumps. Available in color back, they also take pride that the color does not fade or rub off on the phone compared to its counterparts.

Angelo Ally, the maker of Protekme shares his experience that led to the creation of the Iphone case: "I take my wife to work every morning on my way to the office. You know how the morning rush is, that you forget an item or two. When my wife finds out her cellphone is not in her bag, she actually goes back inside the house and looks for her phone. She does not mind if she's going to be late. I guess misplacing, losing or damaging your phone is a problem shared by many people, not just by busy moms and dads, but also playful kids and teenagers, and of course forgetful seniors. Modern life is just too busy -- it's like juggling 10 balls all at once -- that even young people (my daughters included) misplace their phones."

A satisfied user narrates: "The black hard protective cover with kickstand and holster, which is specifically designed for the iPhone 6, does not only look and feel terrific to touch, but also delivers perfectly well on its promise of convenience, good looks, durability, and affordability all rolled into one.

This protective case comes in two pieces, the back cover (with the kickstand) and the front cover (with the built-in belt clip), both of which offer sophistication, sleekness, and style. With the integrated kickstand, the unit's usability is even more enhanced as it makes watching videos convenient for the user. You may adjust the viewing angle according to your needs. Choose whether to position your unit sideways or standing up -- either way, you get the benefit of hands free usage solution. However, I suggest that when using the kickstand, always go for the horizontal or parallel position as this is sturdier. On the other hand, the built-in belt clip on the front cover ensures the unit is securely attached to a belt or strap.

Made up of high-quality material, the front cover adds protection to your unit against shock, drops, and bumps. I am not fond of using belt clips, but this unique feature comes in handy for users who want to keep their phones in place. What I appreciate much about this protective cover is the textured finish that guarantees a good and safe grip. With all these benefits, you definitely get your money's worth!"
