Specialty Engraving & Trophies Inc., an Atlanta award, plaque, trophy, and engraving company, wants to recognize their loyal and long term employee, Jerry Greenway. He recently turned 80 and has been employed by the company since 1987. Although he is semi-retired, he continues to work for a few hours a week. The company prides itself on being a family business where employees feel they are part of the family. They believe that Jerry Greenway's loyalty is a result of the employee experience in the company.

Chris from Specialty Engraving & Trophies says about Jerry Greenway: "Truly a member of the Specialty Engraving family. Instrumental in the growth and success of the company. Production manager for three decades, overseeing all aspects of our production systems and production personnel management as well as introduction and implementation of new cutting edge technologies and innovation. His experience and consult alone make him invaluable. Now semi-retired, enjoying his family, church, and friends at his leisure. Choosing his own hours at the company, typically 2 days a week, but ready when needed."

Jerry Greenway had been responsible for the creation of many promotional products in Atlanta, having been directly involved in every element of production. He is now able to choose his own hours at the company.

Typically, he will go to the office two days a week and he is also always happy to come in if he is needed. For Specialty Engraving, employees like Jerry Greenway and their other long term employees play the biggest role in what makes the company such a great place to work, and what makes them a leader in the awards industry.

People are encouraged to visit the company website at www.specialtyengraving.com for further information about the family feel of the business and the various awards products that they offer.
