Norwood, MA based Igo Enterprises LLC had recently the launched its flagship product, which is a portable lap top table. Since its launch, the product has received a large number of positive reviews and testimonials, making it the best in its category. In fact, it has already received 11 individual reviews, each of which rank the item as five stars.

Kerry Igo, owner and founder of Igo Enterprises LLC, says: "We really didn't expect things to go this well, this quickly. Launching a new product is always a nerve-wracking experience because this is when you find out whether all your hard work has paid off. We really can't thank our customers enough for putting their faith in us and for their kind words."

In the portable lap top table reviews, customers mention time and again that they are so impressed with both the portability and the flexibility of the lap top table and what it enables them to do. "I was looking for a comfortable, easily assembled, compact laptop desk unit. Very happy with this purchase. It was important for me to be able to place my keyboard under it while I work at my counter. Working on my tablet or laptop, while in my recliner, is easy leaving me enough room to position my arms and legs comfortably taking the stress away from having to reposition myself often....," says an Amazon customer.

For Igo Enterprises LLC, the above-mentioned review summarizes the ins and outs of the table itself. Kerry explains: "We wanted to develop a lap top table that enabled people to work in comfort, thereby making them more productive overall. When people become more productive, they get their work done in less time, leaving more time for the more enjoyable things in life. And our table can help with those things as well, functioning as a breakfast table or stand for a new book, for instance."

The portable lap top table is currently available exclusively on Amazon. This affords customers additional buyer protection while also ensuring that only genuine reviews can be found on the site. It is expected that the company will soon launch more products, and they expect to make some announcements in the near future.
