Adam elements, a leading company that produces smart electronic products, announces OMNIA Q1, a wireless charging pad now available for pre-order on the Adam Store for a special price. The charging pad uses a universal base that uses Qi standard technology which provides a quick and easy charging experience for Apple and Android devices.

OMNIA Q1 allows high-speed wireless charging up to 7.5W for iPhone 8, iPhone 8 Plus, iPhone X, and 10W for Android devices. The wireless charging pad is built with over-current, over-voltage, and over-temperature protection to keep users phones safe at all times. Adam Elements backs it up with a reassuring 3-year warranty for users peace of mind.

The compact wireless charging base weighs 135g being the right balance between portability and stability. OMNIA Q1 offers a slick zinc-alloy outer ring and a wave pattern that creates air channels for better heat dissipation which keeps users phone cool.

When users place their phone on Q1, a blue light turns on. The wireless charging base was created with two light modes, ring mode and focus mode. The ring mode comprises of light around the base, while the focus mode centers in one place. Users can switch modes by pressing a single button on the side.

OMNIA Q1 is designed to charge by simply placing the device on top of the wireless pad. When the phone is charging the light is steady. To notify users that their phone is completely charged, the light will commence a rhythmic breathing pattern. ?The light is an integral part of Q1?s minimalistic and discreet aesthetic,? an Adam representative said.

Adam Elements OMNIA Q1 wireless charging pad is designed with a Type-C to USB Type-A cable which allows users to connect it to a Quick Charge power source, travel adapters, and laptops. The advanced constant frequency, voltage regulator, and efficient heat dissipation design cut charging time by 30% compared to other 5W charging pads. OMNIA Q1 offers all these advantages without having to take the protective case off users phones to power them up.
