Amy Rosenthal, founder and creator of Metro Dogs, had this to say to her clients about the sale, "With joy and delight, I can tell you that I've sold Metro Dogs to the one and only single most perfect person I could ever want to take over my business?another woman who's as passionate about your dogs as I am. She has already been running successful dog daycare and boarding businesses for nearly 15 years, and she's my clone when it comes to operating a facility that puts the care and safety of your dogs above all else?Wendy Harter, owner and operator of Dog Days in St. Paul, and now the new owner of Metro Dogs. Wendy has a terrific reputation in the Twin Cities and in our industry."

New owner Wendy Harter said, "I am very excited to have purchased Metro Dogs Daycare & Boarding. It is a perfect fit, the values and philosophy of Metro Dogs match that of mine and the 3 Dog Days locations."

Metro Dogs is 6 blocks north of Target Field, at 506 11th Ave. North, downtown Minneapolis. Open 7 days a week.

Dog Days has 3 easy to get to locations in St Paul; Vandalia St, University Ave (Capitol) and Grand Ave.

Dog Days has committed to a large, highly trained staff to assure a low dog to staff ratio. This allows them to pay special attention to the dog's needs and time for extra hugs and belly rubs. The multiple indoor and outdoor play areas allow them to separate dogs based on size, temperament and play style so everyone can have fun.

Those looking for a dog daycare and/or boarding facility in the St. Paul, Minneapolis and surrounding areas are encouraged to contact Dog Days as soon as possible to get the ball rolling. They would love to help loving dog owners take care of their dogs.
