

Adam Elements Releases The Fastest microSD Card Reader for iPhone

June 29, 2018

June 29, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Adam Elements, a leading brand of external storage devices, announces the world's fastest microSD card reader compatible with mobile devices. The iKlips miReader captures, saves, and shares photos, videos, documents, apps, and more without worrying about storage limitations. Fully MFi certified, the flash drive connects to Apple devices, reads microSD cards and offers a Micro USB connection.

The iPhone card reader supports file import and export enabling users to freely move content to and from their card reader to their iPhone or iPad. Customers can use a microSD card of any size and instantly take advantage of all the features it offers.

The flash drive extends the iPhone and iPad's memory, transfer files from users device into the iKlips, watch videos stored on the card, back up valuable information, capture pictures and videos, and charge. Adam Elements developed a user-friendly app for the iKlips miReader. Its simple interface allows content management and media playback without being connected to the internet.

On one end of the iKlips, users can connect a micro USB to USB-A cable, enabling the flash drive to be connected to a computer to transfer information to the device easily. The flash drive's extended lightning connector allows users phone's to keep their protective case on while using it.

The iKlips is compatible with iPhone 7 and versions below and guarantees high quality and safe transferred information. It is now available for purchase on Amazon.com in both black and white.

Adam Elements provides smart solutions including flash drives, hubs, adapters, charging stations and a wireless charging pad. Their products are fully compatible with the world's most popular devices. The company includes smart mobile accessories, wearables, intelligent health monitors, and integrated hardware to provide customers with a vast range of products and services.
