July 19, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

California Picnic, a business based in Doral, FL, has announced that they have launched their new gardening tools set on Amazon. The said gardening tool set is available through <http://bit.ly/GardeningSet>. This product joins California Picnic's other line of products, Picnic Baskets, Blankets and Totes.

A representative from California Picnic says: "We love everything about gardening. This year, gardens all over the world have literally exploded thanks to the unusually warm weather. Flowers are in bloom, fruits are growing but unfortunately, weeds and pests are loving the weather as well. With our two new gardening tools sets, you can really give your green fingers free reign and enjoy the beauty that Mother Nature provides."

The Garden Tools set, which can be picked up today through <http://bit.ly/GardenTotesCalifornia> is made of high quality materials, including high caliber cast aluminum. This means that the gardening tools will not rust. The durability of the tool set sets it apart from many other products on the market today. It also comes with a set of gardening gloves fitted with fingertip claws that are perfect for pruning roses.

The gardening tool set features a durable, fashionable tote bag with a number of pockets. It is made of 600D heavy duty material that is able to hold a range of gardening tools. The included tools, meanwhile, all have ergonomically shaped handles. The representative points out: "We want people to be able to enjoy the art of gardening, ensuring that they can have a firm grip on their tools without discomfort or fatigue."

The gardening tool set has also proven to be very popular with businesses that offer it as a promotional gift, or as a token of appreciation to their own staff. It is protected by a California Picnic 12 month warranty as well, which is a further testament to the high quality of the product. The warranty is applicable for the bag, gloves, plant sprayer, and all tools included, such as a hand rake, a cultivator, an SK-5 pruner, a weeder, a transplanter, and a trowel.

While only recently launched on Amazon, the product has already attracted several positive reviews from happy customers. People found it to be incredibly user friendly and they love the fact that the set includes everything they need to work on their garden. "I am a newbie to gardening and my yard is currently completely overgrown with weeds and various out of control shrubs and plants. I ordered this set to help me get started cleaning things up and so far I love it..." says an Amazon customer.

The gardening tool set is currently available exclusively on Amazon, thereby offering further shoppers' protection.
