July 25, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Total Car Detailing Houston is the newest mobile care detailing company in Houston. They use state of the art equipment and run a number of specials for their customers. These include not just those who take out subscription packages but also the everyday moms and dads that don't have time to clean their cars. The car detailing company does everything from exterior and interior details, while also catering to complete showroom cleans for the avid car connoisseur.

Garrett Laidler from Total Car Detailing Houston says: "We are the best car care and automotive detailing service. We specialize in paintless dent removal, high-end detailing, paint correction, nanoceramic coatings, and paint protection film. We are committed to completely satisfying our customers."

The car detailing company has a range of highly trained, skilled specialists. They have been trained to work with the most up to date detailing equipment to make sure that all vehicles they work with are provided with long term protection and an incredible finish. Most importantly, the company offers mobile car detailing Houston services, which means they go to their customers. Garrett Laidler continues: "We travel across the surrounding cities in the Houston area to provide service to our customers. All we need from you is an electrical outlet close by to work with. We don't bring a generator since it is inconvenient for your neighbors to have to listen to a running generator."

The business prides itself in ensuring that all vehicles they work with are thoroughly cleaned inside and out. They understand how valuable a vehicle is to an individual and will treat it with the greatest respect, while also guaranteeing value for money. Indeed, they guarantee satisfaction and will fix anything that they have missed. Furthermore, if there is a part of the vehicle that they are unable to clean, they will inform their customer about this and offer other solutions and suggestions.

Garrett Laidler is proud of his team's workmanship. He has been in the business for many years and therefore understands that there are always new things to learn about vehicle detailing, not in the least due to advances in systems, techniques, and technologies. He explains: "We never claim to know everything, and new challenges are something we are always willing to tackle."

Total Car Detailing Houston has explained that when grime and dirt build up on a vehicle, it is possible for the junk to be scrubbed into the paint of the car itself. In addition, things from the environment, including bird feces, insects, and pollution, are full of acids that can cause significant damage to the paintwork on a vehicle. The company is happy to help with those situations to make vehicles look like new again.

The company currently offers four specific services. These are mobile exterior detailing service, mobile interior detailing service, ceramic coating, and mobile paint protection film service. The company guarantees that team members are professional and reliable at all times, delivering an unparalleled service to those in Houston and the surrounding area. Garrett says: "If you are searching for a mobile car detailing specialist in your area that will provide you with incredible results in terms of quality customer service and service, then you are in exactly the right place. We don't mean to brag but we always strive to ensure that our professionalism and quality of service are well beyond what is typically offered by most other car washes and detailers."

The business is quickly becoming known as the best car detailing company in the area, a reputation that they take very seriously. One of the reasons for this solid reputation is that the company also provides educational advice and information to their customers. For instance, they have recently explained the potential damage that can be done when using body or dish soap, or other household products on vehicles. Garrett explains: "We recommend that you avoid using chemicals that have been designed for cleaning other products. Unfortunately, many people fail to follow the advice of their detailing professional. This results in the protective wax peeling off the paint on their cars very quickly. That is just one of the numerous mistakes committed by car owners all over the country."

The company prides itself with regards to the experience, ethics, and education of its staff. This, as well as their security, technology, and exclusivity have set them apart as best company of their kind in the area. This is already evident from the positive reviews they have received. Peter J., for instance, one of their first customers, says on the company website: "Beautiful detailing work, I will come back."
