

Common Summer Pensacola Air Conditioning Problems

July 27, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Pensacola, Fla. - With summertime comes many HVAC unit problems. Elite Mechanical Systems LLC, a Pensacola air conditioning service company, shares some of the most common problems they see in HVAC units during the summer.

Airflow quality is a great issue that many people deal with, especially during the summers where air conditioners are being run more often. With the AC unit being run more often, the air filters become dirtier faster. It is important to clean the filters and replace them every month in the summer.

"There is nothing worse to spoil a great evening or weekend at home than to have the air conditioner blowing hot air and be there sweating bullets," says Daniel Solliday, Operations Manager at Elite Mechanical Systems.

Another issue that can be an expensive repair is compressor failure. The compressor is the heart of the air conditioning unit. It is what pushes the hot air out and draws in cool air from the refrigerant gas. Without it, there would be no purpose of the air conditioner in Pensacola. Problems with the AC unit can cause the compressor to overwork and break down. Don't wait to call a licensed technician to fix problems that arise because it prevents from an expensive fix later.

Daniel Solliday says, "We have the know-how to diagnose, adjust or make repairs, to make your disaster go-away. We are at your service 24-hours a day, 7-days a week, and there is never an additional charge for after-hours, weekend, or holiday service."
