Bowling Green, Ky. - Mike Breen, an accident attorney in Bowling Green, KY, has a few tips for driving safe. Summer nights are here and a lot of individuals love to take night drives. However, the number of car crashes go up. Mike Breen has shared a few suggestions on how to drive safely.

The first tip he gives is to get cars checked. It is more than just getting an oil change or tires rotated. Cars have a lot of different parts. Fluids have to be checked and belts and hoses should be inspected. Individuals should make sure their vehicle is running correctly. If one of the indicator lights turns on, they should get their car checked as soon as they can.

The second tip he gives is to stay alert. Too many drivers get distracted when driving. Accidents occur because individuals are not paying attention to the roads. This Bowling Green car accident attorney stresses staying alert. Surroundings can cause distractions, music can create a disturbance, and phones with their notifications can cause interferences. While driving, individuals should give their utmost attention to the road.

The third tip he gives is to have patience. Drivers tend to go fast when they are in a hurry; however, it is pointless. Speeding only saves a few extra minutes. The risk of accidents goes increasingly high for individuals that speed and drive very fast. Individuals should always watch the speed limit and always stay a full car length away from people in front of them.

"Car accidents can be life-threatening," said Mike Breen. "With these long summer nights, it is important that people stay safe on the roads."
