

Adam Elements Smallest USB-C Hub Offers Optimum Convenience

August 03, 2018

August 03, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Adam Elements, a world leader with a focus on developing smart electronic products, announced the world's smallest 3-in-1 USB-C hub for the newest laptops and smartphones on the market. CASA Hub eC301 offers the essential ports to complement users' USB-C devices. The dongle provides two USB-A ports as well as an Ethernet port for a more reliable connection.

CASA Hub eC301 easily connects, charges, and transfers data from its two USB-A ports and connects to the internet through its Ethernet port. It provides up to 5 Gbps of data transfer rate and charges mobile devices or connects peripherals on its USB ports. It's compatible with USB 3.1, 2.0 and 1.1. The hub is built to handle all the simple accessories such as flash drives, storage devices, cameras, mobile devices and many other peripherals.

"More and more devices are embracing the latest USB-C technology which ignited a spark on us to create a more diversified line of products for users' convenience," an Adam representative said. The USB-C LAN adapter hub is compatible with macOS, Windows, Linux, Chrome OS systems and has been extensively tested on Apple, HP, Lenovo, Asus, Acer, Dell laptops and Chromebook to ensure high quality. In addition, it also supports OTG-ready Android tablets and smartphones such as Google Pixel 2, HTC U11, LG G6, Huawei P10 and more.

The hub's aluminum housing, strengthened connector, and braided cable are made to last long. It doesn't need an additional driver installation as it has a plug-and-play design. CASA Hub eC301 is available on amazon.com, in four different colors: gold, rose gold, silver, and grey.

Adam Elements provides high-quality products and apps that offer a more diversified, smart life.
