August 21, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Adam Elements, a leader in smart electronic products and storage solutions, announced their USB-C CASA Hub PDC501 multifunctional adapter. With a single USB-C hub users can connect up to 4 devices at once and charge their laptop. PDC501's compact size and built-in cable make it the best travel companion.

"After major laptop manufacturers replaced traditional USB-A ports with USB-C we decided to create a line of USB-C products to serve people's needs," an Adam representative said. "CASA Hub PDC501 has the essential ports for every day's necessities."

CASA Hub PDC501 allows users to charge USB-C devices, connect two USB-A peripherals, and insert microSD and SD cards. It's the world's most compact 80W USB-C charger, compatible with MacBooks, HP, Lenovo, Asus, Acer, Dell, Chromebook, Windows, Linux, and mobile phones that support OTG function.

The hub is built to handle all of the simple accessories such as printers, keyboards, mice, flash drives, and more. It is an excellent hub for users that prioritize productivity and allows all ports to be used simultaneously. The hub's enclosure is made of aluminum alloy making it resistant to scratches, impacts, and corrosion.

Users can choose between silver, gold, rose gold, and gray to fit their style. CASA HUB PDC501 is now available at the Adam Elements store.
