

Previously Sold Out Eye Gel By Eve Hansen Beauty Back In Stock

June 26, 2015

June 26, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Eve Hansen Beauty, a health and beauty company in Sarasota, FL, is happy to announce that their popular eye gel is once again in stock on Amazon. Due to its unexpected popularity on release, the product very rapidly sold out. The company has now restocked their inventory. As a way to say thank you for their customer's patience and to apologize for any inconvenience, the eye gel is available at a 62% discount for a limited time only. Instead of paying $39.90, customers can now get their hands on the gel for just $14.95.

"We knew that our product was good", says Rose Hansen from Eve Hansen Beauty. "In fact, we will only market any product that we know will actually work, which is why we offer a full money back guarantee. Hence, when we launched our eye gel, we knew it would sell well because people trust our brand name. We had not, however, expected it would actually sell out as quickly as what it has! To make up for it, we have made it available at a significant discount for a limited time only."

The eye cream offered by Eve Hansen Beauty is 75% certified organic. Indeed, it is even suitable for vegans. It is a gentle but very effective way for people to get rid of wrinkles, puffiness or dark circles under or around the eyes. The cream is very lightweight and can be used by men and women alike. The product is guaranteed to work within just a few days thanks to its natural but potent ingredients, being matrixyl 3000, plant stem cells, peptides, hyaluronic acid and vitamin E.

Since the product was first released, those customers that were able to get their hands on some before it sold out have been overwhelmingly positive about their experience. "I was looking for a product that would help with under eye puffiness and darkness", says one Amazon customer. "I have suffered from this issue basically my whole life and there is nothing worse than always looking like a zombie. I tried several other products to help with this issue but nothing really worked and the ones that did help a little bit made me break out in acne. This product WORKS and I did not have any reaction and my skin is very sensitive. The ingredients list really impressed me as well!"

Eve Hansen Beauty is committed to delivering natural, high quality products to the world. They also want to offer the highest degrees of customer service, something that they are known and respected for. Hence, anyone can contact them through the Eve Hansen storefront at Amazon.com with any questions or hints and tips on how to use the eye cream.
