

Frustrated DIYers Listened To By Child Proofing Lock Company - Glowing Customer Reviews Followed

June 24, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Concepts of Spring appear to have been listening to the frustrations of DIYers who often understandably complain when the installation instructions for a device they've just bought are illogical, incomplete and confusing. They seem to have taken seriously the fact that so many excellent products out there that greatly enhance people's lives and those of their children, often fail to make the grade due to poor installation instructions. They consider that the problem gets worse when companies that make and sell those products don't care enough to take any notice ? and appropriate actions, when customers rightly complain. It would appear that this is not the case with this relatively new company manufacturing and selling child safety locks for cabinets and doors called Concepts of Spring. They claim that their main product ? the Spring Safe and Sound magnetic cabinet and door child safety lock, has just got much easier to install than ever before.

This innovation is the result of a number of customers who gave feedback to the company, informing them that the instructions were just too limited causing head scratching confusion. A series of positive customer reviews followed such as this one from L Smith, which seem to confirm this, ?Once they are fitted these are fantastic locks. They were dispatched to us super quick. I love that they don't move so our baby can't get her fingers inside drawers at all and I love using the magnetic key so its not fiddly for my husband and I to open the drawers when we need quick access or when she's in bed you can disengage them. I think my parents would love them for the disengage function they could use when she visits. I would definitely recommend getting a spare magnetic key or having a safe place to store it so it doesn't get lost. The locks seem very robust and I think they will last us for ages. Plus you can't see them from the outside like lots of other baby lock products. The only real issue with these locks is that they can be tricky to fit. However you can now find some videos online which show you how to fit them step by step and that was very helpful, all fitted and working perfectly."

In recent weeks they have extended their product range to include a variety of different quantity packs, which will help other adults who care for children on a more casual basis child proof their homes for less cost. Company director Sharon Ring is keen to inform parents that their product is of high quality being manufactured in the USA. Each pack comes with updated, simple to follow instructions that have been written by first language English speakers. For all those who are concerned about child safety and are looking for a high end, magnetic cabinet door safety lock that prevents accidents happening to small children playing with dangerous items in kitchens and other areas of the home, this company seems to be delivering.
