South Dakota-based outdoors and sporting goods company FlashBright is proud to announce the release of its product, a bike light, for biking enthusiasts.

FlashBright aims to penetrate a market that consists of individuals who appreciate the outdoors and living an active lifestyle. It has been a local source of sporting goods and bike equipment. "We here at FlashBright want to continue creating products that will suit every adventurer's need," a FlashBright spokesman stated. "Our LED bike light is designed with biking enthusiasts in mind, in order to ensure their safety and comfort," he said.

To avoid bike accidents that involve poor visibility in the dark, every staff at FlashBright have committed themselves to safety of their customers, which is why the company's bike light had gone under extreme quality control to make sure that it will deliver all the time.

FlashBright's bike light ensures 100% visibility for biking enthusiasts. Made from military-grade materials and high-quality aluminum, its bright LED lights will illuminate a biker's path and promote safety by increasing visibility to any oncoming cars. In addition, the bike light can cover a lighting range up to 500 feet, meaning bikers have wider coverage when it comes to lighting up a dark path. It also has zoomable lens (up to 1000x), and comes with a waterproof outer cover.

The bike light comes in three settings: high, low, and flashing. Bikers can detach and attach the product onto bikes with ease.

FlashBright's bike light currently holds a perfect 5 out of 5 rating on its Amazon page. A lot of these reviews consistently called the product "great," "easy-to-install," and "very useful." An Amazon top 1000 reviewer named B. Stout recently gave the bike light a 5-star rating, giving the product 5 stars. Here's what the customer said:

"These bicycle lights from FlashBright are great. I happened to buy them after I clicked the Like Us On Facebook button after visiting its page. We love to go out and ride bicycles as a family in the evenings, especially in the summer time. This set by FlashBright is really neat it comes with an emergency light that really is great for safety. You can use this when you are riding at night to see where you are going as well as be seen. I also love that it is detachable just slide it out of the holder and then it becomes just a flashlight. These both just clamp onto the handle of the bicycle and adjust to any size. Great high quality set."

FlashBright continues to strive for every biker's safety through the release of its bike light. The company wants to create and develop more products that will help biking enthusiasts ride longer and ride safer.
