July 01, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The company owner of Pet Trainer's Choice has announced their participation in Kidsmoneyfarm.com's objective to help educate children in understanding the role of money and the significance of planning when utilizing it. Pet Trainer's Choice will be bringing with them years of commercial and economic experience to assist with the cause. Kidsmoneyfarm.com is an online resource of knowledge for educators and parents to help their children learn about monetary importance and the need to be canny when it comes to spending it.

Since launching their hallmark product; Dog Odor and Stain Remover, Pet Trainer's Choice has received a number of positive feedback from customers. The product's admirable customer rating of 4.6 out of 5 has been made possible by thoroughly understanding its need and developing a product that provides an entire range of service expected of it. In order to increase the incentive for customers to choose their product, Pet Trainer's Choice added versatility of the spray with the promise of it not damaging the surface it is used on. As a confirmation, they have also acquired the approval of the Carpet And Rug Institute. To make their product even more competitive, the company has offered a 34% cut on their listed price. The combination of these attributes, along with a satisfaction based money back guarantee, has made their spray highly attractive for customers. They now hope to bring their business knowledge to Kidsmoneyfarm.com for helping children learn the vital skill of money management.

The project of Kidsmoneyfarm.com was started with the notion in mind that financial perceptiveness is one of the most important lessons one can teach their children. Templates of money can be downloaded for free from their website enabling visitors to place their own picture in the play-currency. Since their launch, the company has developed an app for smartphones as well in order to promote their ideas further. The play money template can be used by parents and teachers to provide an understanding of the value of money and how to be careful with it. Devising scenarios involving the play money can help younger children familiarize with the concept of money.

As a partner of Kidsmoneyfarm.com, Pet Trainer's Choice will bring their expertise in financial planning to the learning program. Since Pet Trainer's Choice is in the process of expanding their product range, they will be able to disclose valuable financial formulas and theories to accumulate capital for investment. This investment can then be utilized in development which will generate further revenue. The idea of making more money from money is an important lesson that will be taught to visitors to the site and would act as the hallmark of the partnership for the two companies.
