September 27, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Brent Silver Construction, a premier home remodeling and construction company based in Los Angeles, California, is excited to announce they have moved their office to a new location. The move from the Sherman Oaks area to the edge of Beverly Hills, also coincides with the opening of two new websites for the company and a partnership with a new marketing team.

Arie Abekasis, spokesperson for the company said, "It's a very exciting time for our team. Not only is our location now more centrally located in the L.A. area, we're still able to serve our customers all over the city with the home remodeling and construction needs with our revamped websites. Customers should be able to get the best information when choosing a contractor, and we think these sites really show off our projects well while giving people the information on our team they need."

One of the sites Brent Silver Construction has launched includes an extensive gallery of the projects the team has worked on over the years. Some of the projects that are shown include homes under construction in the Hollywood Hills and West Hollywood areas, finished modern homes in West Hollywood and Studio City, and a Tuscan-style home in Sherman Oaks. The site also features the construction company's custom kitchens, pools, and specialty rooms such as home theaters, offices, closets, and steam rooms. Abekasis says, "You can also see a rare luxury basement, which you don't see often in L.A. It turned out beautifully and the client was very pleased with the results."

The company's other new website shows off the staff and the office at their new location, along with their hours of operation. "We love our new location," Abekasis says. "In fact, as soon as we moved in we got right to work, as you can see in the photos on the new site. Best of all, with just one click you can get a quote on any project you need us to do. We realized that finding a general contractor can be a daunting task in Los Angeles, but we can help make it easier. You can get a quote right off the site, or you can call us with any questions you might have."

Founded in 2005, Brent Silver Construction has been providing distinguished remodels for residents all over the Los Angeles area. Through creative remodels and specialized construction work, the company is committed to bringing their clients' ideas and taste to life. Some of the work they specialize in are home additions, carport installation, garage building, prefab houses, sustainable design, and much more. They are dedicated to managing a project from start to finish with honesty and integrity, building relationships with their clients along the way. "No matter if you need an upgrade to your old kitchen, or want to build your dream home, we do it all," Abekasis states. "Our team is experienced in making those dreams come true."

The work that Brent Silver Construction has done in the past has not only earned the company an A+ rating from the Better Business Bureau, but it has created a number of satisfied customers, as seen in their 5-star status on Yelp. Doron T. in Los Angeles said, "From day one Brent Silver has been very professional and great to deal with. These projects can sometimes be a nightmare but I feel so fortunate that it was Brent Silver by our side. Their service and communication was excellent and we're very pleased with their quality of work. I can't wait to show off my remodeled bathroom to all my friends and family. Thank you, Brent Silver!"

Brent Silver Construction is excited to be marketing their new sites through Houzz, a site connecting homeowners and builders. "Partnering up with Houzz has been amazing so far," Abekasis says. "We're able to put together a complete site that has all our information that's easy for potential clients to find. We've put up a lot of photos from all of our different projects, and we hope it gives people some inspiration that we can bring to life for them. The site really encourages collaboration between clients and professional builders, which is what we've strived for since we started. We hope to bring even more L.A. residents beautiful work with this new partnership."

For those looking for a home builder, want information on the other services Brent Silver Construction provides, or want to get a quote on a project, they are encouraged to visit the company's new sites to get more information.
