Water Heater Installation Services For Twin Cities Announced

September 28, 2018

September 28, 2018 -
Water Heaters Now!, a company in Minneapolis, Minnesota, has recently announced the addition of new services in the Minneapolis area. The company states that they are now specializing in the installation of replacement hot water heaters in homes and businesses in the Minneapolis St Paul Metro area (Twin cities).

Ray Snesrud, CEO for Water Heaters Now! says, "We are excited to be bringing these services to our loyal customers and hope to earn the trust of even more customers throughout the Minneapolis St Paul metropolitan area."

Snesrud says that the company offers replacement water heaters with no fine print and a company wide peace of mind guarantee. All water heaters are made from the highest quality of materials in the USA and the company says that all removal and recycling services are covered by the cost of a new water heater. The company will bring in a new water heater, install it and haul the old one away for one set price.

"We want our customers to trust in us for their replacement water heater," says Snesrud. "We guarantee that if you call us by 2 p.m. on Monday through Friday, your new hot water heater will be installed on the very same day."

The company says that customers who do not receive same day service, for whatever reason if they call by the required time each afternoon, will receive a gift card because of the guarantee. They state that the gift card can even be applied toward the purchase of a new water heater.

The company states that they have recently expanded their service area to now include the entire Minneapolis St Paul metro area. Snesrud says that they do their very best to provide their customers with same day services and installation of high quality, made in the United States water heaters. He states that they will come and install the new heater, clear away the old one and clean up their mess in no time.

The company provides installation and service of high efficiency tankless hot water heaters, in addition to traditional hot water heaters. Snesrud says that tankless hot water heaters only operate when they are needed, so they save up to 40 percent of the normally used energy for heating water. Many households are now using these smaller, more compact and more energy efficient hot water heaters in their homes today as they have proven to save money and to be much easier and faster to install than traditional larger hot water heaters.

Water Heaters Now! has been operating in the Minneapolis area for several years. Ray Snesrud is a master plumber who has been plumbing in the Twin Cities region for more than 10 years, before taking on Water Heaters Now! He says that in his many years of plumbing, he has seen many plumbing companies do repairs and has found it difficult to find technicians who will respect the company and the customers. He states that just over five years ago, it dawned on him that by only offering the installation and repair of hot water heaters, the company could better serve their customers by becoming experts in their field. Today, Water Heaters Now! only sells and services hot water heaters.

Snesrud says that other plumbing companies offer so many services that customers often get shortchanged. He says that he sees many plumbers acting dishonestly and gouging prices on their customers and says that many companies do not properly screen their employees, which could lead to customers being ripped off as those less than honest employees have access to their homes and their properties. He says that in addition to this, many plumbers have so much inventory that they have to charge higher prices in order to be able to afford a place to keep and to transport that inventory. In addition, he says that the number of companies that are unwilling to stand behind their work is staggering.

"We wanted to provide our customers with a better experience," says Snesrud. "We want to address the problems that we see with other plumbing companies, overcome those problems and then simply give our customers the best possible service. And now that we are expanding that service area, we feel that we are meeting those goals."

Snesrud says that Water Heaters Now! has access to all major brands of water heaters and can give customers options based on their specific needs. Those who would like more information about the company, the services they offer or their specific service area can visit them on their official website.
