October 09, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

A Toronto, Ontario law firm has announced new website content designed to give people more information about impaired driving charges. The firm announced recently that their website is now filled with articles and tips that are dedicated to helping those who are facing charges of impaired driving in and around Toronto.

An attorney with the firm states, "Our aim is to provide information to people about driving while impaired. We want you to be able to find all of the information you need in one convenient place. Our tips and articles include general DUI content as well as things to expect when people have been accused of driving while impaired and why there is a need for a qualified and experienced DUI lawyer Toronto residents can trust to defend them if they are arrested for driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol."

The attorney says that most people assume that once they have been accused of driving under the influence they are automatically convicted. He states that just as in any legal proceeding, a charge of DUI must be proven and that people are not automatically guilty until the charges are proven inside a courtroom. He says that the more information people have, the more likely they will be able to overcome charges as severe as driving while impaired.

"You need to know these things," says the Toronto based impaired driving lawyer. "You need to know what charges of DUI can include, what consequences you could potentially face if you are convicted and what your chances are of overcoming a conviction and going on to live your life normally."

The firm states that they have information for people that can easily be accessed from their official website. The website has categories organized by topic so that the information can easily be found as needed. Topics include general information about driving under the influence, defence possibilities for these charges, why an experienced attorney is needed in cases involving DUI and other points of interest. The attorney states that this is information that every consumer should know and urges those in the Toronto area to visit the site and read through the various articles and tips to become more informed just in case such information is ever needed.

A charge of driving under the influence is not necessarily a life sentence according to the Toronto based DUI attorney. He says that there are a number of defence strategies that can be taken in order to help the accused to overcome their charges. Legally, DUI must be proven in order for a conviction to take place and the attorney says that more often than not, these cases go to trial and must be proven in a court of law. Witnesses, on the scene evidence and other information can be used in order to prove that the accused was not actually driving under the influence.

The attorney does state that in order to build a solid defence, the accused must act quickly. Information on the site outlines why fast action is needed and what those accused of DUI must do in order to further help their cases. He states that waiting too long could negate much of the information that can be used to help get their DUI charges dropped.

The Toronto legal team states that it is advisable to contact only an attorney who is experienced in DUI cases in these situations. The firm says that if contacted quickly, they can build a solid defence in most cases on behalf of the accused. They state that they have a team of investigators that will gather evidence to evaluate to determine whether the accused was denied their charter rights. Defence can depend a lot on utilizing such evidence at trial and the attorney says that they will also cross examine any Crown witnesses to ensure that only the truth is being provided.

The attorney says that anyone needing representation for a DUI in Toronto should contact them directly. Contact information can be found on the official website for the law firm. In addition, the firm states that anyone who would like general information about driving under the influence or impaired driving or any information about the legalities of these types of cases can also visit their firm's official website where information is provided regularly and updated as needed whenever laws or regulations change or are adjusted. The firm states that they are always ready to accept calls from those who need an experienced legal representative to help them with their DUI charges.
