

House Painters West Auckland - BJA Painting Services Adds House Painting Service

October 01, 2018

October 01, 2018 -
West Auckland House Painters, BJA Painting Services have announced that they will be adding complete house painting to their list of painting services.

The move comes after BJA Painting recently expanded to cover all of Auckland city and it?s turned the once small West Auckland painting company into a fully-fledged painting company.

Brian Arnold from BJA Painting spoke about the expansion. ?It was the right time to do it. I had been painting houses off and on for 20 years but never made it an official selling point as I was afraid I didn?t have the manpower to cover it. But since we took over Auckland, I have the teams and the know-how to do it. Bring it on.?

Painting a house is no easy feat, especially in Auckland with it?s ever-changing weather patterns and old houses that go back over 100 years in some suburbs like Remuera or Point Chevalier.

In most cases, the decades of old paint have to be stripped back to bare wood as painting over old paint will not bring a result worthy of BJA Painting Service?s seal of approval.

Brian says, ?To get a coat of paint that lasts, you need to do it properly. Paint is an amazing thing but it?s only as good as the prep work you put into it. If you slap some Resene paint over old budget paint, the foundation of that new paint is only as good as the previous layer. So in a years time, that budget paint will begin to crack and the new Resene paint will crack with it. We can?t have that.?

So with the Auckland-wide house painting service also comes a surface preparation service that will cover any paintable service and render it ready for paint.

This covers but is not limited to: paint stripping via heat gun and sand paper to concrete sealing, plastering and gib stopping.

An increase in service offers is not easy and the man power required for all this painting work is taken care of by BJA Painting Services.

According to their website, ?BJA Painting Services can take on any job, big or small and perfection is guaranteed from the first quote to the final coat.?

The confidence in their work and the stiff standard that the company sets for itself is truly a testament to over 20 years of providing painting services in Auckland and the website backs up all claims with positive reviews and testimonials from past customers of BJA Painting Services.

Felicia Holes, a past customer had this to say, ?I needed my house painted in West Auckland painted a few months back and hired BJA Painting Services to do the job. Really professional painting company, Brian and his team are definitely experts in paint. I recommend them to anyone who needs any house painting.?

The list of reviews only keeps going but just a quick glance through the feedback profile shows that the West Auckland painting company knows everything that there is to know about painting a house.

Brian says, ?House painting is the holy grail of residential painting. It has so many nuances and details, demands so much from the painter that you really can?t go about it with anything short of utter care and professionalism. From the scaffold hire to the preparation and paint selection that can withstand Auckland weather, if you sleep through any detail, it?ll come back to haunt you in a big way.?

Getting a house painted in Auckland also requires a watchful eye on the weather as rain can strike at any time, thus ruining hours of carefully applied paint.

?I subscribe to about 5 different weather channels and have weather alerts on my phone. Brian says, ?if there?s even a chance of rain I make sure to account for it in the daily plan and make sure we can make up for lost time. It?s things like that which helps us stay ahead of the game and make sure we don?t fall behind schedule.?

Ensuring that time tables are maintained and clients kept happy is a key component to running a successful house painting business and one that catches up to lesser painting companies, as one or two jobs that run late can affect a whole season and create a backlog.

BJA Painting Services has been painting in Auckland for over 20 years, visit the company website to view photos of past work and organize a free house painting quote.
