SMM GROUP, LLC spokesperson, Mike, has recently added new colors to their top rated finger styled oven mitts lineup. Finger styled oven mitts have drastically grown in popularity over the last year and the new colors make it easier to satisfy everyone. He added that the reason for the popularity gain is because finger oven mitts are able to provide better comfort and safety benefits over the older style mitts.

Mike made the following statement: "We have seen a huge increase in sales with our finger Oven mitts from Grill Heat Aid, and there are two reasons for this: we provide very high quality gloves that are thick, lightweight and flexible, and second, the glove's fingers allows users to have more dexterity while handling hot items. This means that they can do their tasks quicker, and there is less risk of burn related incidents occurring during the process."

SMM GROUP, LLC stated that this growing trend of shoppers preferring finger oven mitts over the traditional mitts is a mix of previous experience with the older style gloves and some basic common sense. "There is a reason why we have five fingers on each hand instead of two, so why should we use gloves that restrict the majority of those fingers?" asks Mike.

The oven mitts from Grill Heat Aid have gone one step further by ensuring that their gloves are ambidextrous, and the gloves have also been made with an extra 10 cm at the wrist at the end in order to cover most of the wrist as well. The idea behind the design is to allow people to reach further into an oven or over an open flame grill without worrying that they might burn their wrists in the process. However, the company does urge people to not get overconfident with their gloves, because while these mitts do offer an excellent environment to reduce burning incidents, common sense will always be the main factor that ensures the user's safety.

"Our oven mitts also have silicone strips on the palm area of the glove, as well as on the back, to help prevent slippage. When you combine this feature with the wearer's ability to utilize every one of their fingers individually, you can see why these gloves can be very effective at handling all types of objects easily.
