October 25, 2018 -

ORLANDO, FL - The ORU Benefit Network announced today the exciting introduction of a fully integrated communications service immediately available to all ORU Members. Originally, ORU enabled one-to-one instant messaging services for all members but as of today these services have been greatly enhanced. ORUChat now includes capabilities such as video chat, audio chat, audio and video broadcasting, file sharing, white boarding and write boarding collaboration. Members can create individual conversation rooms known as groups and can moderate each individually created group by making them publicly available, by invitation only or add password protection. This provides enormous flexibility and security at the same time.

Nick VandenBrekkel, Founder of the ORU Network stated: "We have an amazingly diversified global group of members and now through the enhanced ORUChat platform, those members have numerous new ways to communicate and interact. Groups can be formed to represent everything from professional interests, hobbies, sports, environmental issues and myriad other social interactions. ORUChat includes screen sharing capabilities which is great for business conferencing and multi person video conferencing. Currently, members have been using services such as Skype, Zoom, GoToMeeting, Slack, WhatsApp, Facebook and others, but with ORUChat they no longer have to. Another one-stop service for all ORU Members included in the membership without any additional charges.?

ORUChat also includes several broadcast features which makes it even easier for ORU to communicate important messages and updates to all members within seconds.
