Frux Home and Yard specialize in providing high-quality products at affordable prices. With Halloween quickly approaching, their tea lights with wraps have begun selling at extremely high rates. Amazon.com reviewer, Fred, explains why.

On Amazon.com, he says, "I purchased these to provide some decoration at Halloween, used them several times to illuminate our walkway for parties. They look just like tea lights at night, the flickering is gentle and realistic."

Frux Home and Yards tea lights with wraps come with 24 battery operated tea lights, and 24 patterned silhouettes that when placed around the tea lights create a unique light. The flameless tea lights are often used as a safe alternative to real flame tea lights and are placed inside jack-o-lanterns. Real flame tea lights pose a fire risk, especially when left unattended. The flameless lights can be left unattended, children can play with them and turn them on and off, they are also safe to have around pets.

Fred added, "I give this product 5 stars for one simple reason: 8 days ago we had a party at the house and used them to help decorate. After the party, we cleaned up and turned them off ... except for two, we missed. I realized it the next day, and out of sheer curiosity left them alone and on to see how long they'd last on the battery. They're still on today - continuous use for 8 days now, plus about 8 hours of previous use. These really last!?

The tealights come pre-installed with lithium batteries that provide over 80-hours of risk-free light, 10x longer lasting light than real flame tea lights, making them much more reliable and useful. Many customers report using these lights for Halloween decor, holiday decor, and special events.

To purchase the LED tealights with holders readers can visit Amazon.com. Frux Home and Yard believes in their products, which is why they offer a 100% satisfaction guarantee and free 2-day shipping to Prime members.
