RENU 28, an Advanced Anti-Aging Therapy, improves the body's ability to keep skin healthy, and is available in free samples on the product's website, EssentialRedoxMolecules.com. Spokesperson Sheriece Strickland of Essential Redox Molecules has announced that visitors can claim their free sample by simply entering their shipping and billing details. While there is a small fee for shipping and handling, users can get the benefits of healthy and radiant skin, an even complexion, and relief from dry skin by using this Advanced Anti-Aging Therapy.

The product includes Redox Signaling Molecules that are found naturally in the human body. These are essential to cellular health and healing and help guide critical cellular communication. However, these molecules diminish with age. All the benefits of these molecules are now available in a single gel. Suited for women and men over 30, RENU 28 helps prevent and minimize the signs of skin aging.

Redox Signaling Molecules, created within cells, support cellular healing. They decline with age, reducing one's ability to heal and overcome common ailments. In a clinical trial of 20 women, the results found a decrease in wrinkles, improvement in facial texture, and increase in elasticity and skin moisture over 28 days. In fact, a 21% average decrease in eye wrinkle depth and 23% increase in skin smoothness were reported. There was also an improvement in overall wrinkles of 23%.

RENU 28 Applying is simple and just requires rubbing it into clean skin until it's absorbed. When fully absorbed, just two applications a day may be enough to sustain results.

As people age, the ability to eliminate/shed dead cells and toxins, and replace them with healthy cells, takes longer. RENU 28 restores the body's 28-day skin renewal process through increased hydration and by replacing essential molecules. It is available in a free trial size tube by following the instructions on the website for a limited time.
