October 25, 2018 -
MANHATTAN BEACH CALIFORNIA ? The Cancer Journeys Foundation and CalClub Autocross made motor sports history on Sunday, October 21, 2018, at the Auto Club Speedway in Fontana, California, hosting the world?s first mixed-gender team autocross competition.

In partnership with CalClub Autocross, the Cancer Journeys Foundation held the world?s first mixed-gender team motor sports event, the 2018 Stop Cancer Autocross challenge, at the Auto Club Speedway in Fontana, California.

The goal of the Stop Cancer Challenge series is two-fold: 1) to get women and men working together to reduce cancer deaths through screening and early detection and 2) to bring more women into motorsports.

Of the 98 drivers who competed in the overall competition on Sunday, October 21st, 32 drivers formed 16 mixed-gender teams and competed in three age categories. The teams competed in cars across all types, from historic Morgan roadsters to Porsche Caymans. The Cancer Journeys Foundation competed using its 2010 Mazda Miata NC.

The first place team in the Open Age Category won in a 2006 Porsche Cayman S, with the second place driving a 2016 Miata ND. The third place team drove a 2010 Corvette GS. The Under 21 team won in a Cosmic Mercury, while the >130 Age Category winners were a husband and wife team driving a 1966 Morgan Plus 4.

Winning times were computed using the PAX indexing system, which allows teams compete on an even basis regardless of the type of car.

Cancer Journeys Foundation president Robert Hess extended a huge ?Thank You? to CalClub?s Lauren Kane-Porta for doing all of the coordination to make the event happen and to the CalClub Autocross Board for approving the concept.

The Auto Club Fontana competition was the first in the Stop Cancer Autocross Challenge series. Drivers interested in participating can join the information list on the Tour de USA website ? Stop Cancer Autocross Challenge.
