June 24, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Cammile Q just published a new article on how to use castor oil for eyelashes and eyebrows. The article is the first in a series of articles on natural beauty treatments.

«We are happy to release this article on eyelashes and eyebrows,» said Sarah Davis. «Ever since we released our first instructional video on eyebrow growth we wanted to write an instructional article on how to use castor oil. A video is great, but there is a lot of information that is not suited for the video format. This article gives our customers more information on how to best use their oil. Our video on the subject was well received, and we knew that we had to write this article.»

The article itself go over step-by-step how to use castor oil for best results for eyebrows and eyelashes and give the reader in-depth information on the subject. Read more about how to apply the oil for eyelash growth, why castor oil works, and about other benefits. The article was published on Cammile Q's website.

Davis explains: «In most situations it is best to use a natural beauty treatment if that is possible, and castor oil is a natural way to achieve longer eyelashes. Many women try to use fake eyelashes or mascara to get longer eyelashes, without any lasting results. Furthermore both mascara, and the glue you have to use for the fake eyelashes contains chemicals that can be harming for the eye. We are happy that many of our customers have achieved great results with a simple natural oil.»

Castor oil itself is a vegetable oil that is derived from the seeds of the castor oil tree. The oil is often used in different beauty products like soap and creams as well as in pharmaceuticals and perfumes. It has been used for beauty treatments and hair growth ever since the ancient Greece.
