

Kevin Cortright Deemed Top Workers Compensation Attorney In Murrieta

November 09, 2018

November 09, 2018 -
The Law Offices of Kevin Cortright recently announced that they are deemed to be among the top workers compensation firms in the Murrieta, California region. Workers compensation attorney Kevin Cortright provides aggressive advocacy for injured clients pursuing workers compensation claims. With more than 15 years of experience, he understands the way workers? compensation claims can be complicated and intimidating for hurt workers.

The Murrieta workers compensation attorney states, ?At Cortright Law, we help clients obtain the best medical care while we handle every detail related to the work injury. Call our firm today to schedule a free consultation. Our clients do not pay upfront legal fees for work injury cases.?

Cortright says workers who are injured on the job have certain legal rights. He states that it is important that workers understand these rights in order to ensure that those rights are protected. The attorney states that workers who are injured should be focusing on healing and not on getting compensation that is necessary to pay for their medical expenses and their time off of work.

?You need to heal,? says Cortright. ?You should be focusing on your health, on healing your injury, and not on feeding your family or paying your mortgage. You have a right to be compensated when you are injured at work, particularly if that injury involved negligence on the part of your employer. My job is to make sure that you are compensated so you can get back to worrying about your healing.?

The attorney says that he is pleased to be considered a top workers compensation attorney Murrieta residents can count on. He says that his clients are very valuable to him and that his goal is to ensure that each client receives the compensation to which they are entitled. Cortright says that his firm has a compassionate staff that understands how frightening and frustrating it can be to go through this ordeal. He says that many clients can be overwhelmed at the thought of litigation or lawsuits and that these legalities can be very confusing and difficult to understand. He says that his goal has always been to do what is best for his clients and to help them to better understand the legal system as they are navigating it.

Cortright says that the very first thing that a client must do when they have been injured on the job is to seek medical attention. The second thing, he says, is to contact an experienced attorney. He says that people would be surprised at the number of employers who ask their employees not to report a work-related accident for fear that their insurance rates will go up. Cortright says that he has personally seen cases where employers even ordered their workers not to report their injuries or tried to bribe them into being less than truthful when asked how they were injured. He says that cases like this are the ones that he represents and that he strives to get his clients compensation to cover their medical bills, their wages while they are off of work during the healing process and other strains that these types of injuries can cause.

The Murrieta workers compensation attorney says that anyone who has been treated for a work-related injury needs to learn more about workers compensation. He says that many workers are unaware that they have rights related to being compensated for injuries that they have incurred while working. He continues to urge those who have been injured on the job to seek medical attention as well as the guidance of a qualified and experienced workers compensation lawyer. Cortright says that even minor injuries, those that the worker may not think are relevant, should be checked by a physician and reported to an attorney just in case the injury turns out to be much more serious than the worker originally realized. He states that those who have been injured on the job can contact his office to schedule a no obligation free consultation.

Those interested can also visit The Law Offices of Kevin Cortright on their official website to learn more. Cortright says that the firm?s website is designed to provide additional information about workers compensation and the laws that regulate it in the United States. He says that anyone who is unfamiliar with these laws can learn more about them on the firm?s official blog or read more on their blog. Testimonials from clients that have helped to rank the law firm among the best in Murrieta can also be seen on the website.
