Arizona Company Launches Pay For Performance SEO Services

November 14, 2018

November 14, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Local Pay Per Results is a company based in Phoenix, Arizona that provides search engine optimization for local and national clients. The company recently announced that their SEO services are based on performance. In other words, clients do not pay until they see results.

Paul, a representative for the company says, "Pay for performance SEO is a service that will greatly benefit your business. We guarantee that your website will rank on page one of Google and other search engines for your keyword phrases. If it doesn't, then you do not pay. It's just that simple."

Paul says that the company is so sure of its SEO services that they feel comfortable in offering a guarantee of this level. He says that they have a combined decades of experience in SEO and stay constantly updated with new developments and strategies with regards to proper search engine optimization. The company states that all of their staff is highly trained, educated and experienced in providing these services and that they are confident that they can provide clients with the results that they want.

?You want your site featured on the first page of Google,? says Paul. ?In fact, you need it to be on those top few pages if you want it to be noticed. We have the expertise to make that happen and in return, you will see loads of new customers or clients which equates to more revenue for you.?

Paul says that the company?s pay per results SEO helps clients to get their sites listed where customers can find them. Numerous studies have confirmed that the average consumer only looks at the first three pages of search results. That means that any site not listed on those first three pages is not likely to be seen by their targeted audience. Paul says that for local businesses, this can be a bit simpler but stiffer competition in larger areas makes it more difficult, which is why he says businesses need to entrust these services to a professional that has a proven track record for getting results. He says that any business that wants to be found online has to have a strong SEO strategy in place to get their website listed on search engines in their first few pages.

The company offers a number of SEO related services including website restructuring, content marketing, social media marketing, link building and more. Paul says that all of these and other services are needed in order to provide quality local search engine optimization. He says that his company has the decades of experience needed to ensure that clients get the results that they want, hence the guarantee. The company states that any company that is not listed on the first few pages of search engine results within the appropriate time after they have started their SEO marketing campaign, will not have to pay the firm anything for the services rendered.

Paul says that this is an excellent way for businesses to determine if the company is a right fit for them. He says that the company can get those coveted first page results for any client regardless of their industry, location or any existing SEO strategies that may be in place. He says that they can even put a new website on the first page of Google for chosen keywords and that any business that is not located on this first page is losing money.

Paul says that the Phoenix based SEO company provides services that are designed to help local and national companies to reach higher page rankings on Google and other major search engines. It is these rankings that provide more customers and ultimately more revenue for the company. Paul says that even those businesses that have never attempted SEO can rank on Google?s first page with the right marketing strategies in place.

The Arizona based SEO company has decades of experience in helping businesses to reach their goals with regards to SEO and marketing. Their expertise and experience runs the gamut from search engine optimization to article and blog marketing, social media marketing and various others. Paul says that any local business that wants to get more attention and thus, more customers, needs to better understand how SEO can help. He says that any business that is interested in ranking on Google's first page can contact the company directly or visit their official website to schedule a consultation. Paul states that the consultation will give the company more information and allow them to customize an SEO plan specifically for the business's unique needs.
