B Clean Windows, a cleaning service provider based in Frisco, TX, wants to stress the importance of homeowners finding "window cleaners near me" when preparing their home for sale. The company points out that real estate agents often provide tips on preparing a house for sale and one of these tips is to have them cleaned, especially the windows because these are one of the first things that a potential buyer will notice when looking at the home.

Paul Ashley, owner of B Clean Windows, says, "There are five primary reasons why cleaning the windows is vital when preparing a home for sale. First, clean windows result into a bright and lively atmosphere, which is what is encouraged by Feng Shui. Second, most potential home buyers will first view the home on the Internet or drive by the home and glance at it. Third, curb appeal is essential for almost half of buyers. Fourth, it adds 5% to 10% to the selling price. Fifth, window cleaning offers the highest ROI of all the improvements that can be done to the house."

Paul points out that the quality of the window cleaning service that they provide is attested to by previous customers who have left highly positive window cleaning reviews on Google Maps and Yelp. For instance, on

Google, Carmen M. gave the company five stars and said, "Great company to do business with. I refer B Clean to all my clients. Their window cleaning service is by far the best I've used. I can always count on them to come through for me."

Also on Google, Saul A. gave B Clean Windows five stars and said, "Must say that I am so impressed with B Clean Windows. When they got here they were very informative and offered tips on how to clean my own windows. They made it look so easy but I'm just going to call them when they get dirty again. My windows look amazing. Thanks!"

Paul says, "There are a number of key characteristics of our window cleaning service. We are prompt and show up on time; we are fully insured; we have friendly and courteous staff; we make use of the best and latest cleaning solutions and supplies; we are available on weekends; we provide a free no-obligation estimate; we provide our service up to three stories in height; and we provide 100 percent satisfaction guarantee."

Paul has described the window cleaning process that they use. First, they wet the window by using a specially designed window cleaning mixer, combining 1/8 oz of high grade soap with 1/8 of commercial grade dish soap. They clean each window from corner to corner using a non-abrasive scrub mop and white scrubby pads. This tends to break up the hardened debris that have accumulated on the glass.

For dirt and debris that are more difficult to remove, they use a Triumph Razor Blade that has been specially designed for cleaning windows in residential homes and commercial establishments. The blade is flexible so that it bends to the glass.

The final step is to re-wet the window and then squeegee off the excess water, detail dry around the edges using a towel. They will then clean the outside tracks that the window screen is sitting on, and the screens are also cleaned.

Aside from window cleaning, B Clean Windows also provides gutter cleaning services. In this service, the company removes all debris from the gutters. This is done by running a water hose down the spouts to make sure that everything is functioning properly after the cleaning. Paul explains that keeping the gutters clean is essential because they can get clogged by branches, leaves, shingle granules, and other debris. If the gutters are clogged, the rainwater will cascade over the gutters and down the exterior walls of the home. This can damage walls and landscaping. It could also saturate the ground around the home's foundation.

B Clean Windows was established by Robert Ashley shortly after his retirement as a way to supplement his income. At that time, he did everything, going to homes or offices, slowly building the reputation of his business as prompt, rapid and courteous service. His business had to stop when he passed away due to cancer. His son, Paul Ashley decided to reclaim the business when he noticed a box containing business cards and flyers. Presently, B Clean Windows is a family owned and operated business that has been in operation for more than 20 years.
