West Valley Pain Solutions of Phoenix, AZ is happy to announce that they have recently moved to a new office in Phoenix in order to provide patients with the best possible care and interventional pain management. The business is known for their personalized approach to each of their patients, which means that the care that is recommended is suitable to each individual. Details about this have been highlighted on their homepage.

"We want to make sure our offices are as accommodating as possible to our patients," says Dr. Penny from West Valley Pain Solutions. "When someone is referred to us, they are in pain and seeking comfort and relief as quickly as possible. Many people feel uneasy in a surgical or hospital setting, which is why we are happy to be able to provide interventional pain management in our office setting. Our new office gives us even more opportunities to provide this to our patients."

People who experience pain from a motor vehicle accident know that everything in their life becomes about finding relief. When pain becomes chronic, people's quality of life is significantly reduced. Regardless of the cause of the pain, West Valley Pain Solutions is there to offer assistance, now from their new and improved offices.

To offer this relief, West Valley Pain Solutions focuses on a number of different treatment options. They have a great deal of experience in a variety of different types of injuries, be they caused by accidents or illness and whether they are acute or chronic. Some of the treatment options on offer include radio frequency ablation and trigger point injections.

"Our goal is to not just manage a patient's pain caused by car accidents" but treat the root cause of thier condition," Dr. Penny added. "Our doctors utilize interventional pain management techniques that help our patients find relief quickly, often within the first few visits. This also helps patients avoid the higher costs of having pain management associated with surgical center fees, as well as avoid being put on heavy medication."

The company focuses on offering a combination of interventional medicine andreferring back to thier chiropractor to continue much needed chiropractic treatment.

Besides working together with medical professionals, the company also works together with personal injury attorneys. This is a two-fold relationship. Firstly, West Valley Pain Management understands that chiropractic services are often the best services to offer someone who was injured during a car accident. Secondly, it provides attorneys with the evidence they need to show someone has indeed been injured. Further information can be obtained through the YouTube video that has been released by the Phoenix chiropractor.
