December 31, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Misra of SAHE Products is eager to announce a new product in the SAHE line - a portable tea infuser bottle in the UK Amazon market. Though SAHE works typically with kitchen cooking products, the family that owns SAHE has decided to branch out to products of convenience as well. SAHE Products already sell this tea maker in the USA Amazon Market.

SAHE Products is a family owned and operated business that has been offering quality cookware in the kitchen for over 10 years. Their primary focus is promoting premium products made with premium materials with an economically efficient process. This year, they've decided to pivot from strictly cooking ware to other products that promote convenience in their customers' lives.

Misra, the owner and operator of SAHE Products, was approached about this announcement. He shared this comment, "I know that we predominantly offer kitchen and cooking products. But my family and I decided that it was time to start branching out into other product lines as well. Our goal is to make the lives of families safer and easier. We realized that drinking coffee and tea is a part of everyone's daily life, so we figured we should make it easier and more accessible. With this portable tea maker, you'll be able to do tea, coffee, cold-brew tea, you name it. The biggest benefit is going to be the convenience as it saves you time.?

This tea infuser travel bottle is durable and long-lasting and has been tested by the friends and family members of SAHE Products before being added to the product line. It can be used to steep tea or coffee interchangeably in the stainless steel leaf basket. The bottle itself is double-walled glass ensuring its durability. An anonymous user bought the tea maker on Amazon and left this shining review, ?This is an excellent product - the double insulated glass keeps the tea warm for hours and the easy screw off infuser cup holds the tea perfectly and easily screws off when I am done with it. The neoprene sleeve is a bonus! Keeps me confident that the glass won't break when I throw it in my backpack for the rest of the day. Customer service with this product is awesome - they reached out to me to find out if I liked the product and if they could do anything. I mentioned that the product came slightly damaged (looks like in route the box was dinged and so the lid had a scratch) - the bottle and lid were completely functional and had they not contacted me for feedback I would never had said a thing as it didn't make a bit of difference - but they promptly responded and sent me a replacement. I couldn't be happier and I would definitely recommend this product!?

This portable bottle is the perfect travel companion with its superior leak protection. It features double seal technology that protects from spills and leaks while the lid is twisted on. Many reviews have commended the size of the bottle, stating that it isn't so small that the tea is overpowering and it isn't so large that it can't fit in cup holders or bags.

Christina, an Amazon shopper, did her due diligence in searching for the perfect travel bottle for her husband. She bought one with exceptionally high reviews and she also bought the SAHE Products tea maker. After her husband had used both, she shared this review,? I bought this tumbler when another highly reviewed one failed. I wanted one with the infuser on top and not an opening bottom. My husband prefers this one. No leaks. Perfect size. Not too big so that the tea is watered down.?

Users have also complimented the bottle's versatility. While many use it for tea or coffee, others have used the stainless steel basket for steeping fresh water with fruit and herbs. One user was glad to use the metal basket as opposed to the clear ones because she complained that after a few hours, the fruit looks dodgy and unappealing. ?The metal infuser hides the fruit while still flavoring the water. I'm much more enticed to drink my water when the fruit doesn't look soaked and gross.?

Misra and SAHE Products understands that this bottle isn't the perfect fit for every person. Some people prefer a clear basket while others prefer a floating infuser. For this reason, they offer a 30-day money back guarantee on the infuser bottle, allowing users to give it a try before they choose another option or product.
