

Nutri Commit Announces New NutriCommit Website

December 18, 2018

December 18, 2018 -

Misra of NutriCommit is happy to announce the launch of their new website for NutriCommit. The new website will be used to facilitate orders directly, in addition to 3rd party channels and resellers. This will allow the team at NutriCommit to have a direct connection with their customers and ultimately better able to provide optimal customer service.

NutriCommit is a health and supplement business that focuses on providing and promoting the best health supplements available. The NutriCommit family dedicates themselves to offering only premier supplements made from the highest-quality ingredients.

When approached about this announcement, Misra of NutriCommit had this to say, ?It?s really in the name of the business. We are called NutriCommit because we are committed to providing an exceptional customer service experience alongside high-quality products. We?ve found that we can?t do that as well by relying on 3rd party platforms and resellers. We wanted to give our customers a way to order directly through us so that they can get the customer service experience they deserve.?

Misra also noted that customers will still be able to order the products they love through the 3rd party channels, but that they will now have the alternate option of ordering directly through their website:

www.nutricommit.com. There, they can browse NutriCommit?s entire line of products, possibly discovering some they didn?t know were offered.

Kristin, a repeat customer who buys the NutriCommit probiotic, was happy to share this review about her favorite product, "Great probiotic - The price for these is great and it contains bacillus subtillis & b. coagulans which is not in most probiotics. This is why I got them. I haven't noticed much of a difference since I started taking these, but I have been taking probiotics for a few years, so it's hard to judge. I wish there was a way we could be sure that we're receiving "active cultures". The "milk" test only works for certain strains, but not all of them, so it is not accurate. Overall, I'm continuing to use these regularly because they are affordable and they claim to be live cultures and have those rare strains!?

While the primary product that NutriCommit produces and promotes is their probiotic, 30 Billion Probiotic Supplement, they also offer other health supplements. These supplements include Tumeric with Bioperine and a Multivitamin called Life?s Vitality. These supplements are designed to promote and replicate healthy cells within the body. The Tumeric supplement is designed to improve heart and joint health, reducing aches and pains overall.

Laura, a new Nutricommit customer, decided to start with the Life?s Vitality multivitamin. This was her experience with the supplement, ?Wow these Great Multivitamins are for more energy. These capsules have vitamins and minerals like normal plus many healthy items that I do not want to eat and the Acidophilus to help you digest things better. I know I do not eat enough wheat grass, Spirulina, Chlorophyll, or many of the other extras it includes. These gave me extra energy, they have green tea and B-12 which will increase most people's energy but if you are not used to them (or caffeine related products) they may keep you from sleeping well if taken at night. The pills are not overly large but a serving is 3, so the 90 count is for 30 days!?

Since NutriCommit is a company dedicated to improving the health and lives of families, they make a strong commitment to their customers. Misra elaborates on this ideal, ?Before we consider a new supplement, it goes through rigorous testing. Then, before we decide to launch it, our own family tests the product. We want to be sure it is a product we personally stand by before we put it in the hands of our customers.?

Ronald is another customer who consistently buys the probiotic, 30 Billion Probiotic. This was the review he shared directly with the company, ?Good probiotic with unique strains: I feel that this probiotic has helped settle my stomach and reduce bloating significantly. It has bacteria strains that are not typically found in other probiotics! I also bought for my mom.?

Nutricommit understands that not every customer is going to have the experience they hope to have with the supplements. Every human body functions and reacts differently to certain ingredients, which is why some medications work for some people but don?t work for other people despite having the same condition.

Knowing this, Nutricommit offers a 30-day money back guarantee to its customers when trying one of their supplements for the first time.
