November 15, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

An SEO Montreal agency has announced a new range of packages that are specifically designed to help businesses increase their online awareness and ultimately, their page views. Montreal SEO has been offering a range of SEO services for many years, and the company states that their new packages fall into the same lines as their traditional offerings. Mark Paradis, a spokesperson for the company, states, "We want to help businesses understand how important local SEO really is."

"Google My Business eases the connection of local businesses and customers on search and map," states Mark. "We certainly wouldn't be the best SEO company in Montreal if we didn't let businesses know about this amazing opportunity to market themselves."

Google My Business allows companies to set up Google + accounts and then choose categories for their industry, connecting with local influencers to verify accounts. It also allows the business to engage with consumers locally, reaching out and offering promotions, information, or general conversation to establish trust, which Alex says is critical when building an online or offline reputation.

The agency is now located at:

Jonathan Loiselle

140 Boulevard Cremazie O #785

Montreal, QC H2P 1C3

(514) 600-6183

The company is offering SEO Montreal services that include entering companies into local directories so that they are more transparent to customers on their local level. Another part of the company's newest packages includes Google My Business, which is a relatively new marketing platform, and one that has the potential to reach an estimated 1.5 billion users every month. Learn more here: <https://www.pressadvantage.com/organization/seo-montreal>.

Keyword, meta description and on page SEO services, and various other SEO tactics are also being offered as part of an overall SEO package. More about the Montreal SEO company can be seen on their official website. Learn more here: <https://goo.gl/3x3m8s>.

The company states that local directories, which are part of their new offerings, are a good way for businesses to increase their credibility. Studies show that such directories have a greater influence on the purchasing decision of most consumers than general directories. Most consumers search for products and services on a local level before branching out. Those interested in learning more about the packages or scheduling a consultation can do so through their website as well.
