Tim Montgomery of Louisville Cabinets and Countertops is happy to announce that they are taking consultation appointments for their kitchen remodeling services. This announcement comes just in time for the winter season - an optimal season for having a kitchen remodeled.

When approached about this announcement, Tim Montgomery shared this comment, "Kitchen remodeling is a great way to give your home a refreshed look. Now is the best time to start the process, as it does take some time to design your new kitchen and order all of the materials for the remodel. An expert designer will walk you through the process from consultation and conception all the way through to project completion."

Though Louisville Cabinets and Countertops creates custom looks, their cabinets and countertops come from only the premier suppliers and are made with the highest-quality materials. Whether a homeowner decides to go with a durable granite countertop or opt for the granite-styled formica, L&C only uses the best products.
