December 12, 2018

December 12, 2018 -

Dr. Amauri Caversan, B.Sc., N.D. of the Dr. Amauri Wellness Centre announces that his wellness center is now offering naturopathic oncology treatments for cancer patients. His naturopathic treatments are backed by evidence-based science and promote natural medicine. Dr. Amauri has written a blog about the accompaniment of his center?s naturopathic approach with traditional cancer treatments.

When approached about this announcement, Dr. Amauri shared this comment, ?The naturopathic approach is a great tool for helping patients feel better. The approach focuses on natural medicine that is essential vitamins and minerals coupled with a healthy diet and exercise. The result is that the body heals better and the patient feels better. With cancer and conventional cancer treatments, the body needs extra vitamins and minerals to recover - and that is where the Dr. Amauri Wellness Centre steps in.?

Dr. Amauri offers naturopathic Toronto treatments for many types of ailments. His approach is to improve the body on a cellular level to promote regeneration of cells and rejuvenation of the body. This methodology is what makes naturopathic and nutritional IV treatments a natural accompaniment to conventional cancer treatment methods, though Dr. Amauri recommends a consultation to be certain.

Karen Richards, a Dr. Amauri patient, shared this 5-star review on Google, ?I was referred to Dr. Amauri by a dear friend. His advice and treatment plan on Cancer for my husband has been life-changing. With our ongoing health issues, our regular visits to Dr. Amauri has helped up in so many ways as a family.?

There are many side-effects to traditional cancer treatment methods that often leave the patient feeling drained or even in pain. Some side-effects include nausea, fatigue, dermatitis, insomnia, or even depression. With Dr. Amauri?s naturopathic treatments, the patient is taking an active stand against these side-effects, ideally avoiding depression altogether.

Dr. Amauri stresses the importance of being ahead of depression when it comes to cancer because depression often leads to other side-effects, both psychological and physical. The most important concern, however, is that when patients become depressed, they will often consider giving up on their treatment plans. Dr. Amauri wants to make sure his patients have a fighting chance to keep their spirits up while they undergo cancer treatments.

At the Dr. Amauri Wellness Center, naturopathic care aims to provide relief from the direct, physical pains of cancer treatments. After visiting their oncologist for testing or treatment, patients are encouraged to visit Dr. Amauri for relief. His treatments can boost the immune system in order to minimize inflammation after testing or surgeries.

Anna S. sought Dr. Amauri for his Naturopathic oncology treatments. This was the review she shared on Yelp, ?I was diagnosed with thyroid cancer back in 2012 at only 40 years of age. My fear of the unknown as well as being confronted with a cancer diagnosis left me feeling vulnerable and scared. I had seen two different fertility specialist for several years prior to this cancer diagnosis unbeknownst to me at the time none of those fertility specialists ever made the connection that my infertility might have everything to do with my poorly functioning thyroid. It was not until I met Dr. Caversan who reviewed my medical history and truly listened to all of my concerns and fears. As a result, I had a clear understanding of my diagnosis & treatment options available. Dr. Caversan was able to implement a health plan for my post-operative care as well as a plan to prevent the spread and or reoccurrence of my cancer and I can now say that I've been in remission now for 3 1/2 years and Dr. Amauri Caversan has remained a vital part of my health and overall well-being.?

In his blog post, ?Naturopathic Oncology Explained - Is It For You?? Dr. Amauri explains common side effect from conventional treatments as well as common naturopathic cancer therapies. He also explains how Amy Rothenberg, a naturopathic doctor, fights against her own cancer and why the combination of conventional medicine and naturopathy works for her. Additionally, he explains his approach to fighting breast cancer. Patients are encouraged to contact Dr. Amauri?s office to schedule a consultation for both complementary and preventative treatments for cancer.
