Dr. Jonathan Walker, D.C. with Florida Spine and Injury in Ocala, Florida has announced the publication of a new blog post. The new post is titled ?How Long After A Car Accident Do I Have To See A Chiropractor?? The chiropractic clinic says that it contains some vital information for those who have been injured in an automobile accident and is a must read for anyone who has experienced an auto accident injury.

?We do try to provide our clients with good information on our blog,? says Dr. Walker. ?We have previously released information on things like using turmeric for back pain and other pain issues. This one however, is vital for anyone who has been in a car wreck. You need to know what to look for with regards to injuries and when you should seek medical attention.?

The post states that those who have been involved in a car accident should see a chiropractor as soon as possible and no more than 48 hours after the wreck. Dr. Walker says that unfortunately, the shock of the wreck and disguise any injuries, leaving the injured to feel as if they are fine at the scene. He says that within a few hours however, those injuries begin to show and it is critical for those who are injured to seek help.

?You never want to ignore pain,? says Dr. Walker. ?This is particularly true in cases of car wrecks where you really don?t know what is going on inside your body. You need to be seen by someone who can evaluate you and take care of the issues that are causing your pain.?

Dr. Walker has been deemed the best chiropractor in Ocala, FL for a number of reasons. He states that the clinic?s blog is one of those. He says that they strive to provide pertinent information regarding pain and injury so that patients will know when they may be having issues and what they should do to alleviate pain and ensure that no further injuries are incurred.

Dr. Walker continues that the sooner one seeks treatment for these types of injuries, the faster they will recover from those injuries. He states that from an insurance point of view, it is essential that those involved in a car accident seek medical help as quickly as possible. He states that the new blog post points out all of this information and more that is designed to help those who have been in a car wreck to ensure that they are taking care of themselves.

The post points out that those injured in a car accident will want to seek compensation for their injuries, assuming that those injuries were the fault of someone else. Dr. Walker states that in order for a compensation case to be easily won, it should be filed relatively quickly after the accident, which he says is another reason that those involved will want to seek medical attention pretty quickly after the accident. He says that even if the involved feel as if they have not been injured, they should visit a chiropractor to make certain that this is true, particularly since soreness from some minor injuries obtained in a car accident can take hours or even days to show up.

Dr. Walker states that he and his clinic are available for anyone who feels that they may have obtained an injury or those who are dealing with chronic pain. He states that those who are interested can read more about these types of injuries and other pain issues on their blog or get more information now on the clinic?s website. Dr. Walker and his team have been providing chiropractic services to those in and around Ocala for several years and states that their goal is to help the injured to live pain free lives.
