Venture 4th has recently issued a public advisory on the importance of using travel money belts especially when travelling abroad. A Hidden Travel Money Belt on Amazon is something the company recommends buying.

Those who are travelling overseas are more susceptible to theft and that's why we always advise everyone to take extra precautions while being in an unknown territory. Travel money belts have been around for quite some time already but still, most people seemed to be unaware of its great importance, says Patricia Wright of Venture 4th.

Travel money belts are worn comfortably under clothing and are very useful in protecting valuables such as cash, credit cards, keys, passports, tickets and other important documents from thieves and pickpockets alike. Experts advise travellers not to put their valuables on handbags and backpacks since these type of bags can get easily lost or stolen. Vacations are meant for relaxation and enjoyment and nobody wants to stress over a stolen bag with his or her credit card, money and passport in it," she said.

Primarily, a good travel money belt must provide ample space for valuables without being too noticeable when in use. It should be nicely concealed and hidden so it will not attract any unnecessary attention. "Thieves and pickpockets are very good with their undercover missions but your money belt should cover and protect your valuables even better," says Wright.

However, In the recent years, identity thieves and scammers have also devised a way of taking someone's ATM or credit card information through the use of digital card scanners. It only takes a few seconds for thieves to scan someone's information that's why choosing money belts with built-in radio-frequency identification (RFID) protection are strongly recommended. Nowadays, "electronic pickpocketing" has become a huge problem because of the increasing number of ATM and debit/credit cards that utilize RFID technology. Without proper RFID blocking measures, someone can easily skim card information by using a special device that transmit energy in the form of radio waves to a nearby RFID source.

Venture 4th is a well-established travel accessories company that offers a wide range of travel money belts to choose from. Customers will also get to enjoy a new variety of colors such as Olive Green, Red, Blue, Purple and Turquoise on top of their existing classic Black, Gray, Silver, Beige and Brown models. Their travel money belts are spacious yet compact and most importantly, proven to be RFID safe for additional peace of mind. Interested parties may also visit their website to learn more about the best RFID protection tips and measures.

Customers who are looking for the best hidden travel money belt on Amazon can check the Venture 4th store to choose from various travel products and accessories that they currently offer. Evident on their hundreds of positive product reviews, Venture 4th is undoubtedly one of the best manufacturer and suppliers of RFID protected travel money belts in the market. Moreover, they also ship worldwide.

John Millard on Amazon said, "A well-designed money belt that fits over or under clothing, it is excellently tailored and rides comfortably. The seams are nicely stitched, the zippers work well and the fabric is light but tough. The fabric is netted across the back so it can be placed next to the skin without discomfort. With two long zippered sections, one with pockets correctly sized for credit cards and passports, there is plenty of room not only for more cash than any sane person might carry, but also for one's regular wallet opened out. The RFID blocking woven into the rip stop nylon is a definite plus. I also bought one for my wife and see definite possibilities as presents for my more walk-about kith and kin."

"A must-have item for traveling. Used this money belt during my latest trip to SE Asia and I wore it every single day. On my first day I did not wear it and ended up losing my phone. After that I kept all my valuables in here and did not lose a thing or get pick pocketed. Great quality, durable, and has a lot of space inside with some compartments for separating items. Could not say enough good things about it and will be sure to include it in my next adventure,? says Sadie Schwartz, another satisfied customer from Amazon.
